Nixon delays govt. pay hikes

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) —President Nixon Friday ordered a 60-day deferral of pay increases for 3.5 million government employes, both civilian and military.

In a message to Congress, Nixon said the move was necessary to hold down the rising cost of living and that the federal government and its employes had a special obligation to fight inflation "even in cases when meeting it involves a reasonable element of self-denial."

Congress has 30 days in which to overrule the President's action. Otherwise, a federal pay increase of approximately 4.7 per cent which was scheduled to go into effect Oct. 1 will be deferred until Dec. 1.

Not affected by the President's action were nearly 700,000 mailmen and other employes of the U.S. Postal Service, a semi-public corporation, who won clearance from the Cost of Living Council Friday for pay increases amounting to an average $700 the first year and $400 in the second.

Most of the pay raises will be retroactive to July 21 for 608,000 nonsupervisory personnel under a two-year contract negotiated by the Postal Service and four unions, with about 90,000 supervisory workers getting theirs Nov. 12.

"I regret asking for this postponement of a federal pay increase but there can be no doubt of its necessity," Nixon said. "At a critical time in the economic health of our nation, when many are being called on to make sacrifices in order to hold down inflation, no one should enjoy special immunity.

Nixon acted under the Federal Pay Comparability Act of 1970 which provides for periodic, across-the-board increases for federal civilian and military employes to keep their pay scales commensurate with those for civilian jobs.

The amount of the increase is set each year by the President after receiving recommendations from the federal Employes Pay Council, the directors of the Office of Management and Budget and the Civil Service Commission, and a three-member nongovernmental presidential advisory committee on pay.

According to the statement, the recommendations call for a 4.77 per cent increase. Nixon, however, said this would be further reviewed and he would make a final decision in September.

Federal budget managers estimate that a 1 per cent across-the-board increase costs approximately $400 million annually, making the annual cost of the 4.7 per cent increase approximately $1.88 billion.

"At a time when the rising cost of living is a major concern to us all, the federal government and its employes have a special obligation to avoid any action that would needlessly fan the flames of inflation," Nixon said.

"This obligation must not be taken lightly, even in cases when meeting it involves a reasonable element of self-denial."

He said both labor and management in the private sector have acted with "commendable restraint" in keeping new wage increases in line.

Director John Ford dies at 78

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) —John Ford, one of the greatest movie directors, who set the standards for action films and polished the western into an art form for three generations, died Friday at 78.

Ford won six Academy Awards, and directed an estimated 200 films, including many that became classics, from "The Informer" in 1935 to "The Quiet Man."

His death was announced by a funeral home here, which said Ford's family reported the famed director passed away at his home in Palm Desert, Calif. Riverside County authorities said Ford died of cancer at 6:35 p.m. with his family at his side.

Ford had been a virtual invalid for the past three years. His last picture was "Seven Women" in the mid-60s.

Ford's first picture was "The Tornado," a 1917 two-reeler that he also acted in and wrote.

His Academy Award winning movies included "The Grapes of Wrath," "How Green Was My Valley," "The Informer" and "The Quiet Man," and two World War II documentaries, "The Battle of Midway" and "December 7."

He also directed "Tobacco Road," "They Were Expendable," "Arrowsmith," "The Plough and the Stars," "Drums Along the Mohawk," "My Darling Clementine," "When Willie Comes Marching Home," "Rio Grande," "What Price Glory?" "Mr. Roberts," and "The Last Hurrah."

He was widely praised as one of the greatest, if not the greatest, director of westerns, including such classics as "Stagecoach," which made a star of John Wayne in 1939, "Fort Apache" and "She Wore a Yellow Ribbon."

COMBATING THE ELEMENTS

Hot, humid, polluted air hung over much of the East Coast Friday, driving this Washington, D.C., bicyclist to don a gas mask for protection. The stagnant air caused many persons to be hospitalized with respiratory problems and large cities were faced with power cutbacks due to air-conditioner use.

Valley cities intact in court remap plan

SAN FRANCISCO — Three special masters appointed by the California Supreme Court Friday submitted a new political reapportionment plan for redistricting the state's Senate, Assembly and congressional districts that would both keep the Pomona Valley intact and divide it.

The valley cities would remain clustered together in congressional redistricting but would be assigned to different districts in the reapportionment of Senate and Assembly Districts.

Some cities in the valley in the past have been carved up into two or more districts but apparently would have the integrity of their individual boundaries left undisturbed under the masters' plan.

The Supreme Court will now consider the recommendations and may accept, reject or modify the proposals. Oral arguments will be heard by the court, probably early this fall.

Sen. Mervyn M. Dymally, D-Los Angeles, chairman of the Senate Reapportionment Committee, said the plan would mean a Democrat-controlled Senate. Sen. John L. Harmer of Glendale, chairman of the Republican caucus, concurred with Dymally's opinion.

Currently, the Senate is split 20-20 between the two parts. Dymally predicted the plan would mean more minority representation and force six—possibly seven—senators into potential re-election contests with other incumbents. He declared the plan did not make "major" chances in congressional districts.

"The court will probably buy this plan," the legislative leader said in Sacramento.

In rejecting all previous reapportionment plans, the masters submitted seven basic criteria, for use in any plan adopted by the Supreme Court.

The proposed reapportionment plan formed state Senate districts by pairing adjacent Assembly districts.

As proposed, Senate District 32 would include Assemyly Districts 65 and 66. It runs from Pomona through San Bernardino and, except for Pomona, is located entirely in San Bernardino County.

Senate District 33 includes Assembly District 63 and 64. It includes Downey, Norwalk, Whittier, La Mirada and the Hacienda Heights and Diamond Bar areas.

Senate District 25 includes Assembly District 61 and 62. It contains the northern and eastern portions of the San Gabriel Valley. Included are San Gabriel, Arcadia, Covina and Glendora.

Senate District 26 includes Assembly District 59 and 60. It contains the southern portion of San Gabriel Valley and the population is 40 per cent Spanish-surnamed.

The proposed reapportionment plan for California's 43 congressional districts used Assembly districts as "building blocks" and achieved a population difference of only 2,000 between the largest and smallest districts.

Districts 35 includes all of the Pomona Valley area in both eastern Los Angeles and western San Bernardino counties. The cities of Covina and West Covina are also included in the district, and the sparsely populated part of the San Gabriel Mountains just north of the populated areas.

District 36 contains the urban portions of San Bernardino and Riverside counties, including all of the cities of Riverside, Colton, Rialto and Fontana and most of the City of San Bernardino.

Assembly District 62 includes Glendora, Covina, West Covina, San Dimas, La Verne and Claremont.

Assembly District 64 includes La Mirada and Whittier, plus the unincorporated areas of Hacienda Heights and Diamond Bar.

Assembly District 65 consists of territory in the Pomona Valley and includes intact Pomona in Los Angeles County and Upland, Ontario, Montclair and Chino, together with adjacent unincorporated areas, in San Bernardino County.

District 66 is wholly within San Bernardino County and consists of Colton, Fontana and Rialto, and the major part of the City of San Bernardino. A small part of the northern and eastern edges of San Bernardino are in District 67.

Presently, Pomona is split into the 25th, 33rd and 38th congressional districts, the 19th and 35th Senate districts, and 49th and 50th Assembly districts.

State GOP chairman Luce said in San Diego the proposal was "an enormous improvement over the gerrymander advanced by the Democratic leadership in the legislature."

Dymally said the proposal would result in Democrats holding "24 seats comfortably" in the Senate. He added it would provide an opportunity for a Chicano to be elected to that chamber in East Los Angeles and Baldwin Hills.

The masters' 84-page report, supplemented with various data and maps, rejected the congressional and Assembly plans of the state legistature, with the observation that they "needlessly depart from the criteria of compactness and maintenance of county line and city line integrity."

As for the Senate plan, the masters added that it also "raises grave constitutional questions involving population deviations and dilution of voting strength of black and Spanish-surnamed persons."

Gov. Ronald Reagan had vetoed the three plans passed by the legislature, saying he seriously objected to the Asembly reapportionment plan but found the other two plans acceptable. He said he would have signed at least the Senate plan had it been submitted to him in a separate bill.

The masters noted that the legislative plans apparently had the goal of re-electing incumbents and said: "While protection of incumbents may be desirable to assure a core of experienced legislators, the objective of reapportionment should not be the political survival or comfort of those already in office."

Antiwar vets acquitted of GOP convention conspiracy

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — A youthful federal court jury Friday acquitted eight antiwar veterans charged with conspiring to violently disrupt the GOP convention that nominated President Nixon for a second term.

The verdict was returned at 2:23 p.m. EDT, just three hours and 51 minutes after U.S. District Judge Winston E. Arnow turned the case over to the panel with the reminder that, "You are justice."

The jury panel was made up of seven women and five men, with an average age of 31. Eight members were under the age of 30.

All the defendants were members of the Vietnam Veterans Against the War (VVAW). They called only one witness, a bomb expert, in presenting their case —as opposed to the 28 paraded to the stand by the prosecution.

The defendants contended the state had failed to prove its case and appeared confident even before the verdict was rendered. They said they felt sure of at least a hung jury.

When the case finally was turned over to the jurors, most of the defendants retired to the courthouse lawn and began a frisbee-tossing game.

Had they been convicted they faced a maximum sentence of five years in prison on the federal conspiracy charges on which they were tried.

Deliberations hit an early snag when the jurors sent word to the judge at 12:25 p.m. requesting a large quantity of testimony be read back to them. They asked for portions of the testimony given by two FBI informers, William W. Lemmer and Charles H. Becker, and that of Michael Carr, an aide to U.S. Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla.

The jury's interest was centered on Lemmer's testimony concerning secret attic meetings of members of the VVAW held at defendant Scott Camil's Gainesville house during the 1972 Memorial Day weekend. The FBI infiltrator had testified the VVAW members planned violence at the GOP convention during the meetings.

Besides Camil, the other defendants were Peter P. Mahoney of New York, a former national coordinator for the VVAW; John Briggs of Gainesville; Alton C. Foss of Miami; John Kniffen of San Antonio, Tex.; Stan Michelsen of Pompano Beach, Fla.; William Patterson of Norfolk, Va., and Donald C. Perdue of Hollywood, Fla.

Motorcycle-car crash kills Ontarian, injures Chino girl

ONTARIO — A spectacular accident involving a motorcycle and a car left a 21-year-old Ontario man dead and a 17-year-old Chino girl in serious condition Friday evening.

The accident occurred at the intersection of Mountain and Mission Boulevard when the Ontario man plowed his motorcycle into the side of the girl's cas at high speed. Police said that they were in pursuit of the motorcyclist when the accident occurred.

The names of the man and the girl were withheld by authorities Friday evening.

The impact of the collision left the motorcycle protruding from the driver's door of the car. The girl was thrown from the vehicle through the passenger's door.

Police said that they had pursued the motorcyclist south on Euclid Avenue and west on Mission to Mountain where the collision occurred as the girl drove south across Mission.

The girl was hospitalized at Doctors Hospital in Montclair, while the man's body was released to Draper's Mortuary in Ontario.

Mandatory terms

Tough drug law now in effect in New York

NEW YORK (UPI) —New York State's new drug law, "the toughest in the nation," goes into effect Saturday with mandatory life sentences for many offenders and rewards for informers.

The harsh new law, which treats addiction as a crime rather than a medical problem, provides for life imprisonment for the sale or possession of hard drugs in certain cases with parole for life if parole is granted at all.

Under the old drug law, convicted drug dealers and addicts were able to win probation, parole, and suspended sentences or were committed to treatment centers.

Under the new legislation, sellers and users of heroin, cocaine, morphine or opium, must be sent to jail for at least a year.

A wide range of drugs are covered by the law including LSD, certain prescription drugs, cough mixtures laced with codeine and diet pills containing amphetimines.

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, asked the legislature last January for life sentences for drug dealers without plea-bargaining or parole. The legislature modified the demand but enacted a law Rockefeller has described as "the toughest anti-drug program in the nation"

The highest category of offense is the sale of one ounce or more of hard narcotics for which there is a mandatory life sentence of which at least 15 years must be served.

Marijuana and hashish buyers and sellers are relatively unaffected by the new law, however. Possession of one ounce or more of marijuana or sale of any amount calls for a 1-15 year range; possession of one-quarter to one ounce is a felony with a maximum jail term of seven years and probation available.

Charred body identified as El Monte man

POMONA — An apparent murder victim whose charred body was found Aug. 20 in a burned pickup truck has been identified as Arthur David Imler, 52, of South El Monte. Identification was made Friday by members of the victim's family, police said.

The victim was found in a truck near Country Club Drive and McKinley Avenue. A passer-by had reported seeing the pickup burning near Brackett Field.

Imler was killed by a blow on the head, an autopsy revealed. He was already dead when the truck was doused with gasoline and set on fire.

Desperate sea struggle on to save men in small sub

CORK, Ireland (UPI) — An international rescue flotilla tried repeatedly Friday night and Saturday morning to rescue two British sailors from their trapped midget submarine on the bottom of the Atlantic before the two men ran out of oxygen.

One of the trapped men reported they had about two-thirds of a bottle of oxygen left —enough to last until late Saturday morning.

A sister midget submarine plunged into 4 to 5 foot waves early Saturday morning, trailing a line which it hoped to attached to the trapped Pisces III, a minisubmarine which was trapped Wednesday night while laying telephone cable.

The little rescue sub dove toward the Pisces III, trapped 1,375 feet down, shortly after 2 a.m. (9 p.m. EDT Friday). It was a desperate effort to bring up the two trapped crewmen— Roger Mallinson and Roger Chapman—before their oxygen ran out.

Previous efforts to attach a line to the trapped submarine failed when a rescue craft developed mechanical problems.

If the submarine is unable to attach a line to bring up the two trapped men, rescuers may try to use dredging gear to scoop it from the bottom, said Sir Leonard. Redshaw, chairman of Vickers Oceanics, owners of the Pisces III.

He said it was a grim decision to have to make, and that the choice would not be made unless the submarine now in the water fails to attach the line.

550 to 650 may die in traffic

By United Press International

Millions of motorists took off on Labor Day weekend trips Friday. The National Safety Council said as many as 650 of them might die in traffic accidents before the end of summer's last holiday.

Statisticians for the council estimated that between 550 and 650 persons would be killed on the nation's highways between 6 p.m. local time Friday and midnight Monday.

Some 22,000 other persons will sustain disabling injuries in traffic mishaps, the council said. Safety experts said both the death toll and the number of injuries could be lessened if drivers allowed plenty of time to reach their destinations and all car occupants wore seat belts.

During a similar nonholiday period at this time of year, the council said, 450 persons would die in traffic accidents. The 1972 Labor Day weekend toll was 602.

President to meet with Agnew over Maryland scandal

(UPI) —President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will meet Saturday in Washington to discuss the investigation of Agnew's possible involvement in Maryland political corruption, it was announced Friday.

Agnew asked for the meeting, presidential spokesman Gerald L. Warren said in disclosing arrangements for the Saturday morning session while Nixon prepared to fly back to the White House Friday evening after a two-week working vacation at his home here.

Warren cautioned reporters against fueling rumors that Agnew was getting ready to resign.

"There will be no discussion of resignation by the vice president," he said. "I am absolutely sure of that on the basis of first hand knowledge," indicating his information came from Nixon or Agnew.

Marsh Thomson, Agnew's press spokesman, said in Washington there was "no intention on either side to discuss the vice president's resignation." He said Agnew had requested the meeting to generally update discussion of the case.

According to published reports, a federal grand jury in Baltimore may be on the verge of indicting Agnew on the basis of allegations that he accepted kickbacks from contractors while governor of Maryland.

Warren declined to say whether Nixon had received any new information on the progress of the investigation.

Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson has been keeping the White House informed of major developments in the case.

Agnew has vehemently denied any wrongdoing and the President, in his news conference Aug. 22, expressed confidence in Agnew's integrity.

Surgery for Rep. Mills

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) —Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., one of the most powerful figures in Congress, underwent surgery Friday for a chronic back problem that had threatened to end his political career, but doctors said the "odds are good" for his complete recovery.

In a 2 ½-hour operation, a neurosurgical team headed by Dr. Thomas Fletcher removed a ruptured disc between Mills' fourth and fifth lumbar vertebrae that had been causing increasing and disabling pain in recent months.

Mills, in his 18th consecutive term and chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee since 1958, said July 7 that if his back condition did not improve he would not seek re-election.

Kenneth Rodriguez

CHINO — Requiem Mass will be celebrated at 9 a.m. today for Kenneth Alan Rodriguez, 8-year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Rodriguez, 14929 Sandalwood Lane.

Kenneth was electrocuted Thursday night in a backyard accident.

He was born Nov. 2, 1964, and had lived in the West End area all of his life. He is also survived by a brother, Raymond, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Rodriguez of Los Angeles, and Ernie Cavallo of Monterey.

Requiem Mass will be celebrated at St. Margaret's Catholic Church. Burial will be at the Resurrection Memorial Park, Montebello.

Defense boss says hopes to cut budget are illusory

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger says it would be an "enchanting illusion" for Congress to think it could cut the Pentagon's $79 million spending budget this year without damaging U.S. defenses against a growing Soviet military.

His warning to Congress, which will take final action on the defense budget in the next few weeks, was made at a breakfast meeting with reporters Thursday. Accounts of his remarks were reported Friday by The Washington Post, the Washington Star-News and other newspapers invited to the breakfast.

Schlesinger pictured the Soviet Union as having "a mailed fist encased in the velvet glove of detente." He said the Russians, while seeking improved relations with the United States, had increased their military budget an average 5 per cent a year and were pushing ahead with tests of new missiles and multiple warheads.

Schlesinger criticized "phoniness and obfuscation" of defense issues by some members of the post-Vietnam Congress who would seek further cutbacks in Pentagon spending in the belief it is draining federal resources from the rest of the economy.

"It is an enchanting illusion that you can simply take large amounts of money out of the defense budget and get only fat and not muscle," he said. "It was an illusion in 1949 and it is an illusion that we can ill afford today."

He attacked what he called "this mindless tendency to dismantle our forces in Europe," a major drive of Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield. Schlesinger said a unilateral U.S. pullback might well lead to a collapse rather than a strengthening of European selfdefense efforts.

On another topic, Schlesinger said recently disclosed failures in the U.S. Poseidon submarine launched missile should serve as a warning to the Soviet Union that the technology for sophisticated multi-bomb warheads is "very complicated."

The failures occurred during operational tests of the Poseidon missiles, each of which carries ten independently targetable reentry vehicles with separate warheads. Schlesinger said problems with these missiles appeared "transitory" and did not substantially weaken U.S. deterrent forces.

"We have been deploying them for five years and studying them for ten years, and the fact that we run into some of these problems I think should also be a caution to the Soviets, who are just beginning to (conduct) flight tests," Schlesinger said.

Congressman says record of Nixon land sale altered

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The chairman of a House investigating subcommittee charged Friday that a document recording President Nixon's sale of San Clemente, Calif., property to two wealthy friends had been altered before the White House released copies of it this week.

The White House promptly rejected any suggestion of impropriety.

The chairman, Rep. Jack Brooks, D-Tex., told a news conference the original date on the sales agreement had been erased to make it appear it had been signed Dec. 15, 1970, when it actually had been signed later.

Brooks said he was "hesitant to hazard a guess" as to why the change was made, but went on to say that such an alteration could "put you in a new tax year."

"Cheap Shot"

White House counselor Bryce N. Harlow, angered that Brooks had held the news conference before he could reply to Brooks' letter of Friday requesting an explanation, accused the congressman of "an extremely cheap shot against the President."

In a "Dear Jack" letter telephoned to reporters after the news conference, Harlow told Brooks "there is no basis for a perception of inconsistency in the transaction."

Harlow told UPI: "His staff apparently got mixed up. The charge has no consequence. In my opinion, it was much ado about nothing and was an extremely cheap shot against the President."

Brooks, whose House government activities subcommittee has been investigating the nearly $2 million spent for security at Nixon's homes at San Clemente and Key Biscayne, Fla., challenged the authenticity of copies of a sales agreement distributed by the White House Monday.

The agreement documented the transfer of 23 acres of Nixon's 28.9-acre San Clemente property to two of his closest friends, Robert H. Abplanalp and C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, in a $1.2 million transaction.

Alteration confirmed

Brooks said the South Coast Engineering Co. of San Clemente, which surveyed the land in connection with the sale, had confirmed to his subcommittee's investigators that the original papers had been altered.

He said the investigators saw erasure marks when they inspected the original copy in the surveyors' offices.

But Brooks said Frank DeMarco, a Nixon attorney, told the investigators that "the dates have not been changed."

DeMarco is a member of the law firm of Herbert W. Kalmbach of Newport Beach, Calif., the President's personal lawyer who has been implicated in the Watergate cover-up.

Brooks said he was not charging an illegal act had occurred. He said the surveying company told his investigators such a change in the date of a sales agreement was "not abnormal in California."

Although the copies of the sales agreement made public by the White House were dated Dec. 15, 1970, Brooks said, the 10 pages of attached documents included "descriptions of boundaries that apparently were not surveyed until after Dec. 25, 1970."

DEPARTING SMILE — U. S. Secretary of State William Rogers was all smiles on his last day of work Friday. He was the guest of honor at a reception at the State Department. He will be succeeded by Henry Kissinger.

Assembly passes bill giving state workers bargaining, strike power

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation giving California's 1.1 million government workers the right to bargain collectively for their wages—and strike if necessary — narrowly cleared the Assembly Friday.

Sponsored by Assembly speaker Bob Moretti, the measure (AB1243) was sent to the Senate on a mostly party-line 41-31 vote, the minimum required.

Opponents forecast more strikes, higher taxes and a loss of citizen influence in government-worker negotiations.

Moretti, who successfully beat down attempts to amend out the right to strike, said his measure "for once" was an effort to deal with a problem "before it becomes a crisis."

The Van Nuys Democrat, a gubernatorial contender, said there were 30 strikes by public employes in California last year. He said the bill would blunt them in the future by establishing procedures for collective bargaining.

But Assemblyman Newton R. Russell, R-Tujunga, displayed charts which he said showed a steady increase of public employe strikes in states which already have collective bargaining laws.

The Reagan administration has fiercely opposed the bill, and Gov. Ronald Reagan has repeatedly stated he would not tolerate strikes by public workers.

Under the Moretti measure, a three member Public Employment Relations Board would be appointed to administer collective bargaining. It permits "agency shop" employe unions, requiring all workers to join or pay an equivalent service fee.

It establishes procedures for bargaining and provides that strikes can be broken by court order if a citizen can show that "health and safety is endangered."

Moretti said that clause would effectively prohibit strikes by police and firemen.

It allows, but does not require, binding arbitration, and gives public employes and employers to negotiate settlements in spite of any existing state or local law.

Cost council slashes Ga. pay increases

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The Cost of Living Council slashed proposed pay increases Friday for Gov. Jimmy Carter and about 400 other top Georgia state officials, contending that the full pay boosts worked against the national anti-inflation program.

The council said that Carter may be given a salary raise to $47,500 instead of the $50,000 authorized by the legislature. The governor now makes $42,500.

Similar cutbacks were ordered for members of the general assembly, state supreme court justices, court of appeals and superior court judges, and district attorneys.

The revised pay scales are retroactive to July 1. The council ruled that the pay scales could go up next July 1 to limits originally put forward.

The governor then will be able to start drawing the full $50,000 annual salary.

CLC director John T. Dunlop said the pay hikes were allowed to be spread over two years, to lessen their inflationary impact.

"These officials have in most instances not had salary increases since 1967," Dunlop said. "We are, therefore, permitting these salary adjustments to prevent a gross inequity."

Nixon praises labor in message

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (UPI) —President Nixon paid tribute to the workers of America as an "intelligent, energetic labor force" in his annual Labor Day message and called on them to "continue to be a force for progress and productivity."

In a statement issued from his California villa shortly before returning to Washington Friday night, Nixon said "the continuing vitality of our economy and, through it, of our entire way of life, rests in large measure on the willingness, understanding and cooperation of the working men and women of America."

Nixon said "Labor Day 1973 should be a time of rededication as well as thanksgiving a time when we renew our dedication to preserving an abundant America, free and secure, for this and future generations."

Cold puts Marx in hospital

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Groucho Marx has been admitted to Century City Hospital after a slight cold was discovered during a checkup, it was disclosed Friday.

The 77-year-old comedian is expected to remain hospitalized until after the Labor Day weekend, according to Erin Fleming, Marx' personal secretary.

Miss Fleming said Marx is regularly hospitalized for slight illnesses for fear that he may develop pneumonia.

Marx, who will be 78 on Oct. 2, chose Century City Hospital so he could be treated by his "favorite nurses," according to Miss Fleming.

. . . Meany raps Nixon privilege

WASHINGTON (UPI) —In his annual Labor Day message, AFL-CIO President George Meany said Friday "democracy is dead" if Americans allow their president to commit crimes in the name of national security.

In another Labor Day statement, AFL-CIO Secretary-Treasurer Lane Kirkland said the Senate Watergate hearings had demonstrated that "America's political system has been corrupted beyond belief by money."

"If law and order means anything," said Meany, "it means that everyone, rich man, poor man, president and plumber, obeys the law."

Meany, a former plumber himself, said: "If one man can determine unchallenged what is 'national security,' and then can justify crimes committed by his authority on that basis, democracy is dead and we can never allow that to happen."

Organized labor, said the 79-year-old union leader, does not believe "communism can be defeated and democracy saved by suspending the Bill of Rights and the 14th Amendment or by outlawing unpopular views or ideas, whether by governmental fiat or vigilante action."

Kirkland, complaining of corruption from money, said the principle of government by the people "has been undermined by the big contributor, turning public servants into politicians for rent to the highest contributor."

Miss Alaska arrives first

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (UPI) —Jinny Adams, Miss Alaska, was the first arrival for the 53rd Miss America pageant Friday and she received a warm welcome.

The temperature reached the 95-degree mark about 50 degrees warmer than when she left Anchorage.

Quake survivors angry homes being razed

Survivors of the earthquake which ravaged Mexico protested the razing of their houses damaged by the earthquake, reporters in Veracruz said Friday.

Bulldozers operated by soldiers and volunteers tore down dozens of buildings left structurally unsound by the worst earthquake in Mexico's history. The quake on Tuesday killed 527 persons, injured 4,000 and left some 25,000 persons homeless.

It was one of a series of quakes which rocked areas along the west coasts of North, Central and South America this week.

Forecasts of more rain over some parts of Mexico added to the gravity of the situation. Parts of the country had been hit earlier this year by what President Luis Echeverria called the worst flooding of the century.

A reporter in Veracruz said protest against razing damaged homes "is only natural with poor people who don't want to leave their houses. The Mexican housing institute has promised loans for new housing, but the loans haven't come yet and the people are afraid."

"CHRISTIAN SCHOOLS DO NOT COST, THEY PAY"

The American Christian Academy, grades kindergarten through twelfth, was born out of a great need. A need to educate young people with high standards of honor, respect, decency, morality and cleanliness. A need to teach loyalty to God and country. A need to build America, not wreck America. A need to train statesmen and decent young men and women.

Your children deserve something better than the public schools. Call us Monday through Friday, 9:00 A.M. to 3:00 P.M., 623-3017.

BELLY LANDING

Crew members prepare to haul in the giant airship, Columbia, which visited the Ontario International Airport this week. Numerous persons were given rides over the Ontario Motor Speedway.

26 planes to take part in holiday air race

LA VERNE — Twenty-six planes will depart Brackett Field Sunday at two-minute intervals to start the 20th annual Jim Long Memorial Trophy Race.

The pilots' destination will be Columbia, Calif., a restored gold mining community, some 350 miles away.

The race, sponsored by the Pomona Valley Pilots Association, is a test of pilot skills in flying ability and navigation.

The entries include two twin-engine planes and 24 single engine planes. The oldest is a 1946 Luscomb monoplane.

Six trophies will be awarded at a banquet following the race. These include an "over-all" winner plus one trophy for the twin-engine plane and four for different single-engine classifications. Winners will be based on speed and fuel consumption.

Most of the planes will carry a pilot and co-pilot, with the co-pilots helping with navigation and fuel control, said Jerry Hibbard, assistant race chairman.

The memorial race started 20 years ago when a group of Pomona Valley pilots decided to sponsor an air race. They named the race after Jim Long, founder of Brackett Field.

Officials said the race has never been marred by accidents. "We think this is due to our technical inspection of planes and making sure they are air worthy and that all the pilots hold current ratings," said Hibbard.

"When we plan the race, safety is utmost in our minds."

The Sunday schedule starts with weighin and registration at 7 a.m., pilot briefing at 9, followed by the start of the race at 9:30.

Motorists aren't the only ones; bicycle riders must comply, too

CLAREMONT — Bike riders aren't exempt from traffic rules. And since Jan. 1, highway patrolmen have conducted a program to make bike riders aware of their responsibilities.

When a youngster is caught violating a law or riding unsafely, he is stopped and a letter is then sent to his parents.

"We advise the parents of what we observed and what the youngster did," said Capt. W. C. Jones, area commander. "We want to advise them of the problem."

The response to the program has been good, he added. "We have received many letters and phone calls from parents who thanked us for advising them. Most said they would handle the situation."

Letters usually suffice in handling these bike riding violations, said Jones. "But if a person has a pattern of continued violations, then we issue him a citation. He must then appear with his parents in juvenile court."

So far, no bike riders have been cited into court.

The field enforcement program is supplemented by officers going to schools and giving lectures and demonstrations on good bike riding rules.

"Our stop-on-a-dime program shows youngsters that cars can't stop as fast as the youngsters think they can."

Statistics indicate the program is having some effect. Only seven traffic accidents involving bicycles have been reported so far this year. This compares to 10 accidents the same period last year.

"And the accident rate dropped in spite of more people riding bicycles, said Jones. "Bikes outsold cars last year in California."

Safety stickers are also being issued for those bicycles which comply with safety regulations.

"These are usually given after bikes have been checked by officers at the school," he noted.

"However, we recently had a young woman in Claremont who went through a passenger vehicle inspection lane," said Jones. "She said she wanted her bike safety checked." Officers issued her a sticker.

'Columbia' at Ontario

Ever take a blimp ride?

By L.T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

ONTARIO — It goes up easily but takes about a dozen men to bring it back down.

The passenger compartment seems dwarfed under the huge fuselage.

The pilot has a large wheel beside his chair which he spins to gain or lose altitude.

Now and then, he will pull a string here, release another there, and continually scan the many gauges before him.

Because of the passenger comaprtment size, only a select few are made honorary members of the "Blimp Club." Only six passengers can travel at a time.

The "Columbia," one of four blimps owned by the Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. of Akron, Ohio, spent the day at Ontario International Airport Thursday taking riders on half-hour trips over the Ontario Motor Speedway.

Large, but delicate

Because of the blimp's mammouth size, one wouldn't expect it to have a delicate condition.

But the loading and unloading procedure is a game of balance. Several passengers are unloaded, who are then replaced by boarding passengers. This procedure is followed until the transfer is completed.

Then it's up, up and away into the blue sky. While the take-off is dramatic, the pace that follows is quite slow. Despite the heavy roar of engines outside, the puffed balloon's speed does not exceed 35 miles an hour.

You seem to drift over the big "O" where you get a "birds-eye" view of the motordrome, where 33 machines will rotate on Sunday.

Then the pilot pulls a few more wires, spins the large wheel and heads back for the airport.

Vineyards

This provides you an opportunity to see the large acreage still devoted to vineyards in the Ontario area. These neat rows of grape vines give a quilt-like appearance.

As the blimp nears its mooring place, about a dozen husky men run out onto the vacant field and grab ropes hanging down. The pilot "cuts" his eninges and the stevedores slowly reel in the air ship.

While the ride was short, the experience will remain forever. Besides, how many of your friends have "Blimp Club" cards.

The Columbia, based in Carson near Long Beach, measures 192 feet long, 59 feet high and 50 feet wide. Her sausage shape is maintained by 202,700 cubic feet of helium inside the rubber-coated polyester fabric evelope.

Barnstorming

The airship spends six months of the year in the Los Angeles area, and the other six months "barnstorming" throughout the nation.

Goodyear officials said the blimp would be at the California 500 race Sunday to give "exposure."

On her massive sides are a series of lights used to flash both public service messages and Goodyear sales promotion messages.

The Good year blimps are used at many sporting events as aerial camera platforms. These include the Rose Bowl and Orange Bowl football games, the Indianapolis, Ontario and Daytona 500-mile auto races,the America's Cup yacht races and baseball's World Series.

22 on crew

The Columbia is staffed with 22 crewmembers—five pilots, a public realtions representative and 16 crewmen.

On its tours, the blimp is accompanied by a caravan of land vehicles. This includes a bus to carry crew members and a large tractor-trailer rig which serves as a mobile maintenance facility.

The complexity of the Columbia shows the progress that man has made since the first known lighter-than-air craft—a 35 foot paper balloon built by the Montgoliter brothers in France—was lifted off the ground in 1783 by hot air from a brazier of charcoal.

There was no barbecue fuel aboard for the Ontario voyage.

Escapee hitchhiker attracts wrong car

POMONA — An escapee from the California Institution for Men was arrested here Wednesday, hitchhiking on the Pomona Freeway west of Garey Avenue.

Frederick Milton McBride, 49, serving his third term for check forgery, was noticed by Pomona officers who held him for CIM authorities. McBride is from Orange County and was being held in a wing for older prisoners. His last committment was in 1966.

Medical care for needy to be outlined

POMONA — Pomona Valley representatives will attend a series of meetings in Los Angeles beginning Tuesday, to learn of free medical care available to persons in need at the National Jewish Hospital and Research Center in Denver, Colo.

Hospital representatives Rita Davis, Kenneth Knight and William K. Waple will discuss the service.

"All persons in need, regardless of race, age, origin or creed, are eligible for free care at the Denver hospital, if afflicted with asthma, emphysema, tuberculosis, cystic fibrosis or allied chest ailments," said Joseph S. Schapiro, head of the National Metal and Steel Corp. at Terminal Island.

Garey reunion has reservation deadline

POMONA — A Sept. 15 deadline has been set for reservations for the five-year reunion of the Garey High School class of 1968.

The event will be held Nov. 10 from 8 p.m. to 1 a.m. at the Western Hills Country Club, Carbon Canyon.

Ticket prices are $4.50 for singles and $9 for couples. The evening will include dancing, hors d'oeuves and souveniers. Reservations should be made by mailing check or money order payable to the Garey High School Class of '68, to Karen Van Buskirk Howey, 1111 S. Reservoir St., Apt. 8, Pomona, 91766.

Chino Hospital appoints new administrator

CHINO — Gary Jones, former administrator of Arroyo Grande Community Hospital in California, will take over administrative duties Monday morning at Chino General Hospital.

Jones succeeds Thomas Jose, who has been promoted to administrator of the Centre City Hospital in San Diego. Both facilities are owned by American Institutional Developers, Inc. of Pennsylvania.

Jones is a 1962 graduate of the University of Denver. From 1962 to 1966 he was active in the administration of General Rose Memorial Hospital in Denver. He spent three years with Davol Laboratories before serving as administrator of Southeast Colorado Hospital.

Prior to coming to Chino General, he headed Circle City Hospital in Corona. Jose was assistant administrator of Northwest Texas Hospital and the Psychiatric Pavilion of the Amarillo Hospital District in Amarillo, Tex. He had also served as assistant administrator of Trinity Lutheran Hospital in Kansas City, Mo.

Jose will take over responsibilities at the San Diego Hospital on Sept. 17. It is scheduled for opening at the end of the year.

Gunman apologizes for scaring victim

SALINAS (UPI) — "I'm sorry, I know I'm scaring you." a bandit was quoted recently by the manager of a drive-in restaurant before he made off with $74 at gunpoint.

"But I need the money real bad," the gunman continued to manager Gary Van Dyke. "Someday you might need the money and might have to do something like this."

Police said that then the bandit pocketed a .22 caliber pistol and fled in a van painted orange with a black stripe.

Freehling named to fill vacancy on L.A. fair board

POMONA — Election of Fred W. Freehling of Cucamonga to the board of directors of the Los Angeles County Fair Association has been announced by Raymond J. Arbuthnot, Association president.

Freehling, 38, has long been active in community affairs, and is director of operations for the Betsy Ross Ice Cream and Coffee Shoppes chain.

A graduate of Mt. San Antonio and the Ft. Knox School for Armored Officers, he is also a past president of the Pomona Jaycees and the Southern California Ice Cream Retailers Association. He is currently on the boards of Leroy Boys Home, YMCA Board of Managers and is an endowment member of the National Rifle Association.

He and his wife, Suzanne, make their home in Cucamonga with their son, Russell, and daughter Jeanette.

Freehling will fill the vacancy on the fair board created by the recent death of Dr. J. Kenneth Afflerbaugh.

Open Door car wash scheduled

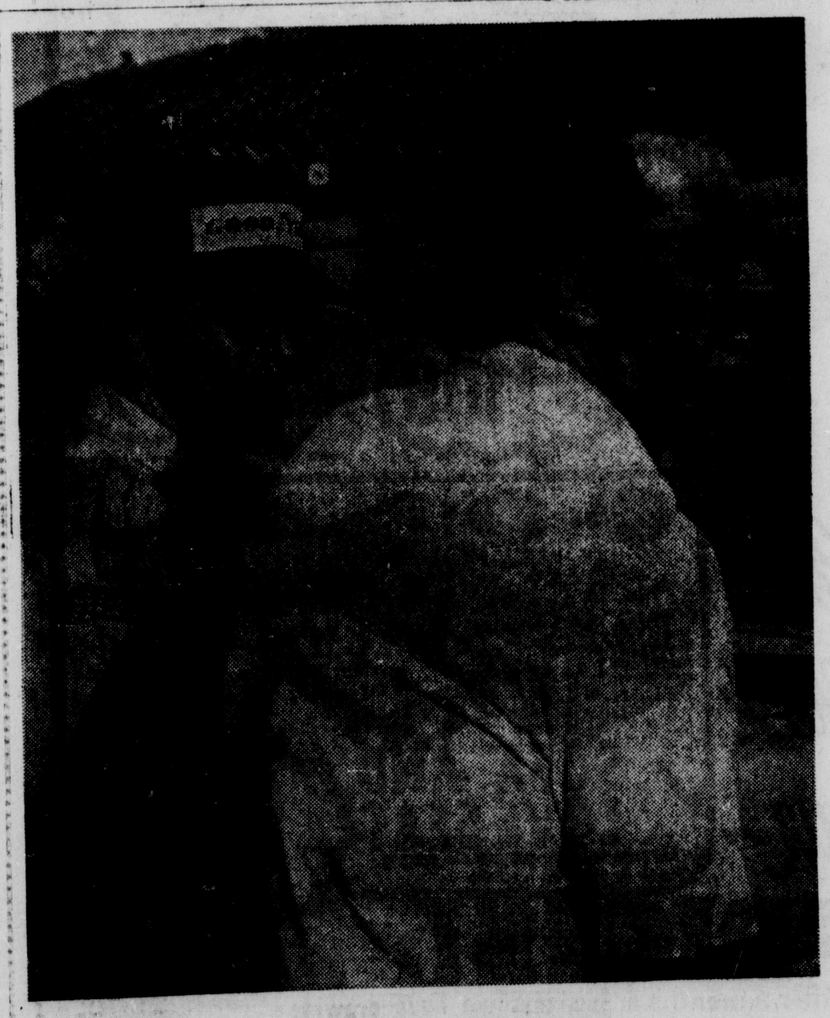

POMONA — Staff members of Open Door Pomona, a crisis counseling service at 1107 N. Gordon St., will conduct a car wash today to raise funds to benefit the house.

It will take place at Steve's Texaco Station at White and Holt avenues from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Donations of $1.50 per car will be accepted.

Dance is scheduled for senior citizens

POMONA — The parks and recreation department will sponsor a Labor Day dance for senior citizens on Monday from 7:30 to 10:30 p.m. at the Palomares Community Center. Admission is $1 per person. Refreshments will be provided.

PARADE CELEBRITIES

Actor James Garner, right, and race driver Roger McCluskey are among the celebrities taking part in today's California 500 parade on Euclid Avenue in Ontario. Garner is grand marshal of the event which begins at 10 a.m. McCluskey, last year's 500 champion, will be featured.

Citrus' special policy admits high schoolers

AZUSA — A special admissions policy has made it possible for high school students to attend Citrus College this fall.

The students may attend regular college classes and earn college credits while attending high school.

College credits may remain at Citrus awaiting full-time enrollment, or be transferred to other colleges.

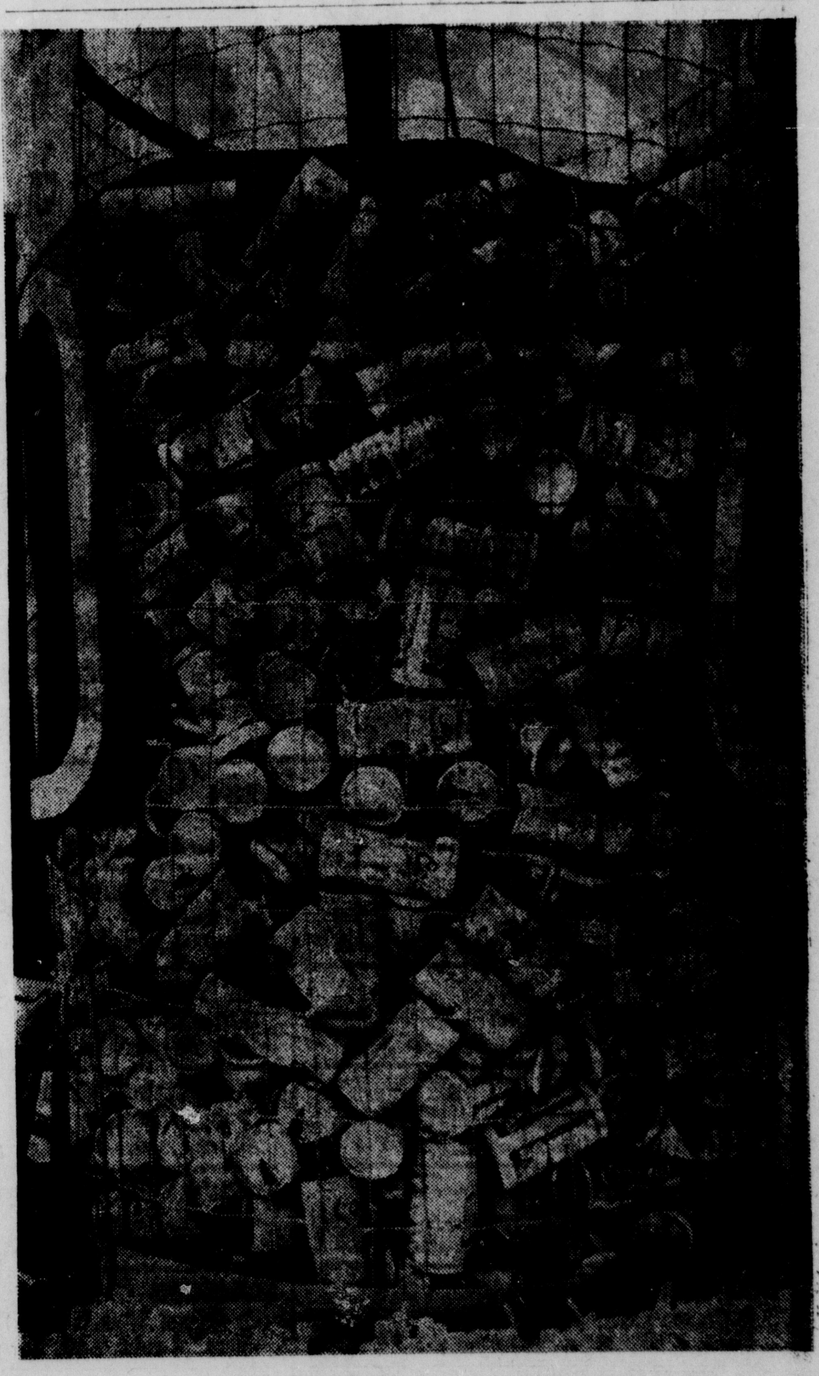

High school junior or seniors may attend college classes during the day, in the late afternoon beginning at 4, in the evening or on Saturdays.

Registration for day classes is in progress now through Aug. 30. Late afternoon, evening and Saturday registrations will be accepted this Monday through Thursday from 4 to 8 p.m.

A required permit to register is available now at the college admissions office which is open daily from 7:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

High school students must bring signed permission forms from a high school official when they register at Citrus. This form is available at high schools and at the college counseling department.

ANTI-LITTER REMINDER

No, Virginia, this is not the remains of the raucous neighborhood party which kept you awake last night. It's part of the Foothill Beverage Co. float in today's California 500 parade urging people to "Pitch In" and not leave the ground cluttered with litter.

Millions turn out to Welcome Peron

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Thousands of Argentine workers marched through the streets of Buenos Aires Friday with a steady chant of "Peron! Peron! Peron!" in a demonstration that seemed to turn back the clock for former President Juan D. Peron.

There had been similar demonstrations two decades ago —before he was ousted in a military coup d'etat. Millions of workers ceased all activities today to join demonstrations backing his return to power from 18 years in exile.

There was the familiar figure of the Argentine strongman, now 77, waving with both hands from the balcony of the General Workers Confederation which had produced the massive turnout, one that shut down Argentina.

In the bright sun of a southern hemisphere winter day, singing Peronists paraded through the heart of this city, to the union headquarters

Standing beside Peron on the CGT balcony was his third wife, Isabel, who is his vice presidential running mate.

To the steady beat of hundreds of drums, the crowds surged past with posters flags and banners identifying their union or organization.

More than 10,000 policemen were stationed in the parade area to prevent any outbreaks of violence between rival Peronist groups who fought an all-out gunbattle at a rally June 20 to welcome peron back from his long exile.

Peron, kicked out by the military in 1955, is considered a sure winner in the Sept. 23 elections.

1 miss is all you get with bomb

BELFAST (UPI) —A group of Belfast children played catch with a bomb for 20 minutes this afternoon before a passing adult took it away from them and called bomb disposal men, the army said.

"They were literally playing with death," an army spokesman said. "It could have exploded at any moment."

The children, all in their subteens, found the five-pound bomb in a package laying on a railway line and were tossing it back and forth without realizing its fatal potential.

Committee approves bill

End to experiments on live fetuses asked

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —After being told by witnesses of "gostesque torturing" of fetuses, the Assembly Health Committee has approved a bill prohibiting medical experiments on live fetuses.

The bill (SB1046) by Sen. David A. Roberti, D-Los Angeles, was sent to the Ways and Means Committee Thursday on an 8-0 vote. It would deem such experimentation to be unlawful and unprofessional conduct.

James Babcock, a premedical student at the University of California at Berkeley, said that at Stanford University in the past live fetuses have been placed in artifical wombs and "cruel acts" performed on them.

He cited one experiment where the rib cages of the fetuses were cut open to observe the heart beating under pressure. If the fetuses instead had been placed in an incubation chamber, Babcock said, they would have had a "fighting chance" to live.

Dr. Philip unshine, Stanford professor, said the Roberti bill "could foreclose fetal research" in California. He said some such experiments were conducted to help find the cause of sickle cell anemia, which occurs often in Negro children.

But Roberti said, "I reject the idea of torturing one human being for the general well being of the society."

The committee removed a provision that would make it a felony to attempt experimentally to cause human conception outside of the womb.

Rats outnumber Lima residents by 15 to 1 ratio

LIMA, Peru (UPI) —A health ministry official said that there are 15 rats for every resident of Lima, the Peruvian capital.

With a Lima population of 3½ million residents, the rats would number 52-½ million, statisticians estimated.

Moises Silva, health department officer for Lima, said the "normal" relation of rats to residents would be one to one. "It's a different story in this capital," he said.

Silva called for an immediate cleanup of food storage bins in the city to check the rat population growth. He said things were so bad in some food stores, and the rats so big and mean that employes refused to go down into the cellars to clean them out.

Fastest turkey doesn't trot; he really flies

CUERO, Tex. (UPI) —A wild turkey named Ruby Begonia, reputed to be the fastest thing on drumsticks, is in training to uphold the honor of Texas in the first annual Great Gobbler Race.

The first heat will be at Worthington, Minn., against that state's top turkey the middle of September, and the second heat will be held at Cuero in October.

Ruby's trainers are trying to figure out how to keep the bird on the ground.

"That Begonia can fly," trainer Ken Long said. "We are going to have to either clip his wings or train him with a harness which will cover his wings.

"The rules of the race stipulate running only, so we'll have to keep our bird out of the air."

'Ms' approved for registration

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —A bill allowing women to use the prefix "Ms" when they register to vote was approved Thursday by the Assembly on a 60-1 vote.

The bill (AB765) by Assemblyman Lawrence Kapiloff, D-San Diego, was sent to the Senate. Currently, women must register to vote as either "Miss" or "Mrs."

Spent $2,427 in London spree

Tourist spreads happiness, thought pound was a dollar

LONDON (UPI) —An American tourist said Thursday he spent 971 British pounds, or $2,427, during a 24-hour stay in London because he thought a one pound note was worth the same as a U.S. dollar bill.

"I am going home a lot wiser," said New Yorker George Leggett before boarding a flight home. "I've been paying for everything with pound notes, thinking they were dollars."

Leggett, 35, a self-described disabled Vietnam veteran, said he began peeling off pound notes, worth about $2.50, when he arrived Wednesday from New York.

He said he paid, among other things, 60 pounds ($150) for a taxi ride around London and tipped a waiter 5 pounds ($12.50) for a meal costing only 2.50 pounds ($6.25).

"I have been welched but due to my own fault," Leggett told newsmen. "When I took the taxi trip I didn't even ask the fare. I thought $60 dollars would be acceptable and paid 60 pounds instead.

"The driver looked very pleased," he said, adding:

"From then on I kept doing the same thing. I am going home now because I think people could have been more helpful. Someone might have told me I was making a ridiculous mistake with my money.

"And in addition to that I found hardly anyone friendly in London."

Lockheed in bid for huge space project

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Lockheed Propulsion Co. Thursday submitted a $1 billion program that would create about 1,000 new jobs to the National Aeronautics and Space Adminstration.

Lockheed is one of four bidders on the contract for the program to develop, manufacture and test large solid rocket boosters for a space shuttle vehicle at plants in New Orleans, La., and Hancock County, Miss.

The contract is expected to be awarded in mid-November.

Due to the size of the solid rocket motors in the space shuttle — nearly 12 feet in diameter, about 145 feet tall and weighing more than one million pounds each — Lockheed suggested building the rockets in sections and barging them to Cape Kennedy and Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif., for assembly.

Other firms bidding on the fourth major contract in the space shuttle program, and the last major new rocket business expected from NASA this decade, were Aerojet Solid Propulsion Co., Sacramento, Calif.; United Technology Center, Sunnyvale, Calif.; and Thiokol Chemical Corp., Brigham City, Utah.

Earlier shuttle contracts were awarded to Rockwell International's Space Division, Downey, Calif., for shuttlecraft, to the company's Rocketdyne Division, Canoga Park, Calif., for main shuttle engines, and to Martin Marietta, Denver, Colo. for the external fuel tank.

Quarantine lifted in poultry area

RIVERSIDE (UPI) — Agricultural officials lifted a quarantine covering a 125-square mile area in San Bernardino County Thursday and cautiously forecast an end to the poultry-destroying Newcastle disease epidemic.

For the first time since March 14, 1972, no large area is now under quarantine against the movement of birds.

Three ranches, two in Riverside County and one in San Diego County, however, are still under quarantine.

Members of the Newcastle Disease Task Force will remain on call until at least next March, nine months after the last reported outbreak, last June 28 near Perris.

It was believed tropical birds imported for sale in pet shops carried the disease into eight Southern California counties causing almost 12 million fowl to be destroyed, most of them egg-laying hens.

The eradication campaign cost $47.5 million.

Environmentalists

Weed killer okayed for use in forest

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Environmentalists lost a bid Thursday to ban use of herbicides in California's national forests.

In ruling against the environmentalists, Judge Lawrence T. Lydick said they had "failed to show that irreparable harm will result" if the herbicide is used.

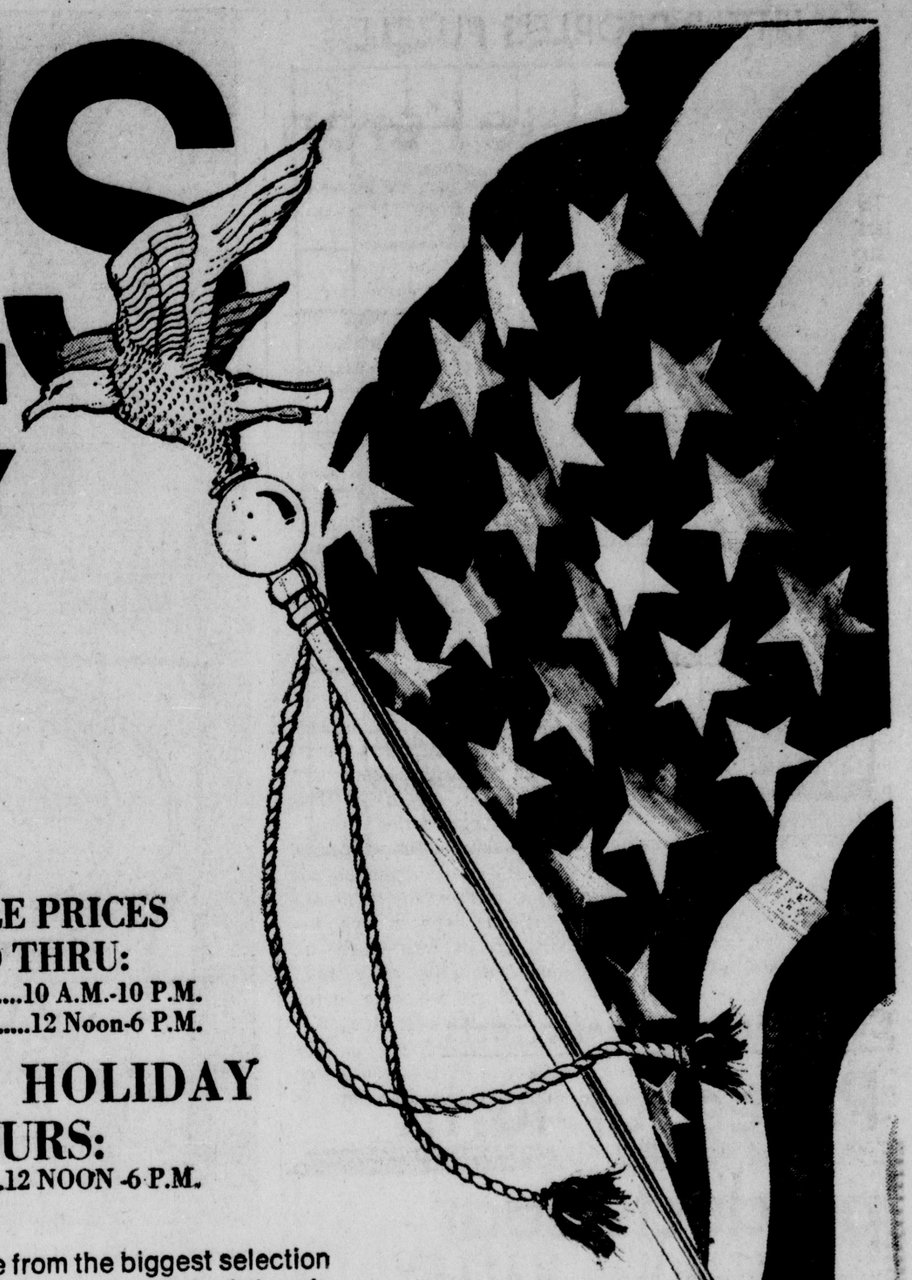

People for Environmental Progress sought a preliminary injunction against the use of the herbicde Brush Killer 170, also known as Weedone 170, contending it is highly toxic to wildlife.

The weed killer is used by the Forest Service to eliminate scrub brush and thereby reduce fire hazards.

Lydick noted that "52 major fires have blackened 195,000 acres of western range land and forests . . . causing $100 million in damage in five states, including California."

Prices for farm products soar

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The average price of U.S. raw farm products soared a record 20 per cent to a new all-time high in the month ending Aug. 15, an Agriculture Department report shows. The statistics signal new retail food price increases.

Issued Thursday, the monthly farm price report was the first major economic indicator to measure the impact of the July 18 end to wholesale and retail ceilings on all foods except beef.

It showed prices 62 per cent above a year ago and 107 per cent above 1967.

Agriculture officials said farm prices also exceeded 100 per cent of parity for the first time in 21 years. They moved from 88 per cent in July to 102 per cent, the highest since August, 1952, when there was Korean war inflation.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz predicted last week that wholesale prices would make "an astounding" jump in August but that overall inflation should cool in the months ahead.

The Agriculture Department said there were higher prices during the month ending Aug. 15 for beef cattle, wheat, hogs, corn, soybeans, eggs and cotton. They were only partly offset by lower prices for tomatoes, potatoes and apples.

Price records were set by all meat animals with beef cattle reaching $51.70 per hundredweight, up $7.50 from july and $18.10 above a year ago. Hogs climbed to $56.50 per hundredweight, up $15.50 from July and double a year earlier.

As a group, meat animal prices were 68 per cent above the same period in 1972.

A record $4.45 a bushel was paid for wheat, up $1.98 from mid-July and nearly triple last year's price. Rice averaged $10.70 per hundredweight, a record high and nearly double a year ago. Up 65 cents a bushel from July, corn reached $2.68, compared with $1.53 a year ago.

Soybean prices rose $2.30 from a month earlier to reach $8.99 a bushel, $1.01 below two months ago but well above the year-ago price of $3.36 a bushel. Eggs rose to 69.4 cents a dozen, up 18.1 cents from mid July and only a fraction below the 69.6 cent record set in December, 1919. The August price was more than double a year ago.

Farmers' costs rose 3 per cent during the month, the report said.

The previous one-month record for an increase in raw agricultural products was 11 per cent, set in October, 1946. The farm parity figure of 102 per cent was well below the 126 per cent of parity reached in August, 1946.

Multi-lighted UFOs spotted over Georgia

ALBANY, Ga. (UPI) — Unidentified flying objects, blinking in various colors but moving silently were reported sighted over a wide area of south Georgia early Friday.

Reports of the mysterious flying objects came from police in Albany, Dawson, Cordele, and Adel. Reports also came from Macon, Leary, Pelham, Ashburn, Vienna, Moultrie and Leesburg.

Military authorities at Robins Air Force Base in Macon, the Naval Air Station in Albany and Eglin AFB in Florida were alerted.

The duty officer at Robins acknowledged getting reports of the objects. But he said there were no plans to send planes to investigate. He said the reports will be turned over to air police "which makes all investigations of UFO reports."

The reports, sent over the statewide police network, said the objects were sighted shortly after midnight, with other sightings made intermittently until after 6 a. m.

The objects changed colors as they moved through the night, flashing blue, yellow and green. Those sighted at Albany were moving north, witness said.

Angler, 75, may fish no more after freak mishap

GOODING, Idaho (UPI) — Lester Hoover may give up fishing after hanging by his heel for several hours over a Snake River waterfall.

Hoover, 75, San Leandro, Calif., said from his hospital bed recently that he was wading in the shallow stream trying to hook his second fish when he slipped.

"My foot went into a hole and I fell. I hung over the fall and my foot didn't come out of that groove. It was a miracle how that leg held out," Hoover said.

The elderly man said he passed out and doesn't know how long he dangled over the 20-foot fall before rescuers found him.

Robert Johnson, one of the rescuers, said Hoover was hanging with head down and his back in the eight-inch fall of water at Cavanaugh Rapids in Hagerman Valley.

Defense chief warns of Russ mailed fist

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger, facing a peacetime Congress intent on military cutbacks, says the Soviet Union still has "a mailed fist encased in the velvet glove of detente."

Despite the detente which took President Nixon to Moscow and brought Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev to Washington, the Russian military budget continues to rise at about 5 per cent a year, Schlesinger said in an interview with a group of reporters Thursday, accounts of which were carried Friday in the Washington Post and Washington Star-News.

With the first peacetime session of Congress for many years about to convene, Schlesinger warned against "phoniness and obfuscation" on defense issues among Congressmen who would cut the military budget even below the projected $79 billion.

Enchanting illusion

Military spending, he said, did not drain federal money from the rest of the economy.

"It is an enchanting illusion, that you can simply take large amounts of money out of the defense budget and get only fat and not muscle. It was an illusion in 1949 and it is an illusion that we can ill afford today."

He said as defense secretary, it was his responsibility to point out that Communist-bloc military strength was growing "even in the absence of an explicit threat."

Schlesinger also was critical of "mindless tendency to dismantle our forces in Europe."

He said a unilateral U.S. pullback from Europe, instead of inspiring Europeans to build up their own forces, might result in a collapse of European defense efforts.

Recruiting drops

In the interview, Schlesinger noted that Army recruiting had fallen off since the draft ended but said he hoped the failure to meet the manpower goal was "only transitory."

He said that "if it goes on month after month with shortages and we see a persistent pattern over a period, then we would just have to come to a very reluctant conclusion" to ask Congress to resume the draft.

On another subject, the secretary said that although a number of failures marred operational tests of multi-headed independently targetable Poseidon missiles recently, it was a "transitory problem' and the deterrent effect of the U.S. nuclear submarine force was not substantially affected.

The Soviet success recently in testing new multiple headed and targetable missiles, known as MIRVs, still left them "five to eight years away" from fully equipping their forces with the new weapons, Schlesinger said.

He said the fact the United States, after 10 years of study and five of deployment of MIRVs, still had problems "I think should also be a caution for the Soviets" who are just beginning MIRV test-flights.

Bank looking for president

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The nation's 12th largest bank is searching for a president.

"A good bank president is a tough fellow to find—the woods are not exactly full of them," said Crocker National Bank Board Chairman Emmett G. Solomon.

The bank lost its youthful president, Leslie C. Peacock, 43, several weeks ago when he learned he would not move up to the board chairmanship when Solomon retires next spring.

"There was no personality conflict or difference of opinion on policy matters," Solomon said of Peacock's resignation. "It was simply that he expected to move up and was not chosen."

Peacock's age went against him though he was groomed for the promotion, Solomon said. The bank executive committee, noting Peacock had served only eight years with the bank, considered the move "premature," he said.

Break, play are both bad

By Oswald & James Jacoby

We don't abject to South's opening spade bid. He did have 12 high card points such as they were. Nor do we object to his continuing to game after his partner gave him a limit jump raise. Two suiters tend to produce lots of tricks.

We do object to the way he played the hand. If you want to bid strongly you should learn to play strongly also.

South ruffed the second club and led the king of spades. East took the trick with his ace and led back the eight of hearts.

	NORTH ♠Q973 ♥A107 ♦AJ5 ♣1032	1
WEST ♠Void ♥KJ9652 ♦843 ♣AK74		EAST ♠A1084 ♥84 ♦72 ♣Q9865
	SOUTH (D) ♠KJ652 ♥Q3 ♦KQ1096 ♣J

Both vulnerable

West	North	East	South
			1♠
2♥	3♠	Pass	4♠
Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead—♠K

There was no way left for South to make his contract. He complained bitterly about his bad luck. It was bad luck, but it also was bad play.

South wasn't worried about a 2-2 or 3-1 trump break. Only four trumps in one hand could hurt him and if anyone was going to hold four trumps it would almost surely be East. West had bid hearts. He had also shown up with a club suit headed by ace-king. It would be a warm day in January at the North Pole before West held all four spades.

South should have led a spade to dummy's queen. Assuming East continued clubs, South would discard a heart. He would have to lose it later in any event. Then he could ruff the next club in dummy with the nine of spades; lead spades twice through East to pick up the 10 and eight and wind up making his contract in spite of the bad break.

Hughes comes out of hiding to pursue suit

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) -- Billionaire Howard Hughes has agreed to come out of hiding long enough to give a deposition in a suit which charges he was bilked in the $9 million purchase of worthless Nevada mining claims.

In a telephone affidavit from London, Hughes agreed to testify in a civil damage suit filed against one of his former advisers and several businessmen by Hughes Tool Co.

"This document is intended to confirm that I expect to be available to answer such legitimate questions at such time and under such reasonable circumstances as the court may hereafter determine to be necessary to the case," Hughes said.

The affidavit filed Wednesday was taken by Lever B. Mylar of Salt Lake City, who was described as a friend of Hughes for more than 20 years, after the billionaire took the oath by telephone. Hughes' lawyers had Mylar appointed a commissioner of deeds for the United Kingdom in order to administer the oath.

Hughes said he "cannot conceive of any manner in which my testimony might be of use" in the suit, which accuses former Hughes' employe John H. Meier and nine other defendants of conspiring to sell the tool company mining claims for prices "far in excess of the value of the property."

Hughes Tool Co., which has changed its name to Summa Corp. since the suit was filed, paid more than $9 million for the claims while Meier was the firm's scientific adviser between 1967 and 1969.

Other defendants include Toledo Mining Co. of Salt Lake City and its president, Anthony Hatsis; Globe, Inc.; John D. Suckling; Charles W. Adams; E.B. Walsum; Malaga Investments, Inc.: Inrespro, Ltd. and Maatschappi Intermovie.

Cal 500 underdogs favored?

By KEVIN CLOE
P-B Staff Writer

ONTARIO — Maybe — just maybe — Sunday's fourth California 500 at Ontario Motor Speedway will be something other than just a race for the underdogs.

That's the title it inherited over the past three years since none of the big names were in the running at the finish.

So why would this year be any different?

Maybe it's because the guys with the "hot" cars have found out they can't run hard in the California heat and humidity.

So with that in mind, there seems to be a better chance for the top teams like Vel-Parnelli Viceroy's Al Unser and Mario Andretti, Dan Gurney's All-American drivers Bobby Unser and Jerry Grant, and Roger Penske's Team McLaren of Peter Revson and Johnny Rutherford.

Traditionally at Ontario, the odds of a car starting in the first three rows of finishing the race are very high.

This year, as usual, there is an all-star cast in the first three rows.

On the pole will be Revson, the international star. Joining him on the front row will be last year's polesitter Grant and this year's Indianapolis 500 winner Gordon Johncock.

"Being on the pole doesn't mean much in this race," said Revson, who qualified in his McLaren Offy at 200.089 miles an hour. "Look what they've done here in the past. They came from way back in the pack in this one."

Roger McCluskey won last year after qualifying eighth. Joe Leonard captured the 1971 Cal 500 from the No. 11 starting position. And the winner of the inaugural Ontario race, Jim McElreath, started 18th.

In the second row will be Rutherford, STP team driver Wally Dallenbach and Gary Bettenhausen.

In row three, McCluskey will be sitting on the inside with Lee Kunzman and Al Unser filling in the other two spots.

To show just how much bad luck the guy sitting on the pole has had at Ontario, just look back on the past three years.

Lloyd Ruby qualified first in 1970, but completed only 42 laps before a broken piston sidelined him. Mark Donohue sat on the pole at OMS in 1971 and wound up 18th, five places higher than Ruby.

Then there was Jerry Grant. The Irvine veteran who set the first 200-mile an hour lap last year in winning the pole, went out on the parade lap with a broken connecting rod belt and finished dead last.

This year the drivers seem to be working more on dependability than speed. That was evident last Thursday when the drivers put in their last day of practice before the race.

That may be bad news for Bobby Unser and A. J. Foyt, both starting in the eighth and ninth row respectively.

Ordinarily, they might have a chance to move up through the pack. But since the drivers will seemingly play it a little more conservative this year, the decline in dropout rate would hurt them instead of help them.

Speeds just barely went over the 190-mile an hour mark Thursday with a full load in the new 40-gallon fuel tank.

Not only will the speeds be down Sunday, but so will the attendance.

At least that's what most of the OMS officials are predicting. In fact, the crowd is expected some 60,000 short of last year—which would be somewhere around 100,000 fans.

But Jim Cook, the executive vice president and general manger of the Parnelli Jones-Tony Hulman group, is still optimistic.

The reason may be that the track saved $800,000 on advertising while also cutting down the winning purse.

Not only that, but the officials at the track have eliminated the use of complimentary tickets—meaning almost everybody at the track Sunday are paid customers.

TWO-MINUTE KNOCKOUT

Heavyweight champion George Foreman punches challenger Joe "King" Roman to the canvas in two minutes of the first round in their title bout in Tokyo's Nihon Budokan Hall.

Foreman ko's Roman in 1st

TOKYO (UPI) —Undefeated world heavyweight champion George Foreman Saturday had no mercy for underdog Joe "King" Roman of Puerto Rico and knocked him out in the first round in the first defense of his crown.

The end to the first world heavyweight championship fight ever held in Japan came at exactly two minutes of the first round.

Roman weaved to his left and right as the fight started. Foreman with his hands up high bored in looking for an opening. It was Roman who threw the first punch but he missed a left to the jaw.

Foreman, fighting carefully, landed a right to the body and shook the challenger. He landed another right to the body and floored his opponent for an eight-count knockdown.

Roman was up and tried to avert disaster by maneuvering to his left and right. Foreman bored in with a relentless left and right combination to the body.

Foreman rushed the challenger against the ropes and punished him severely with a left and right combination to the body.

Roman went down again for another eight count. Foreman went for the kill, pushed the challenger against the ropes and then flattened him with a powerful right uppercut to the jaw.

Referee Jay Edson leaned over Roman and counted him out at exactly two minutes of the first round.

Dr. Kei Suzuki of the Jikei Hospital, who is the Japan Boxing Commission's physician, leaped into the ring to examine the fallen Roman.

Roman recovered consciousness and was taken to his corner.

Foreman lived up to his reputation as one of the strongest heavyweight champions by stopping the game Puerto Rican challenger quickly.

Foreman was making the first defense of his heavyweight crown which he won by knocking down Joe Frazier six times before referee Arthur Mercante stopped the fight at 1:35 of the second round in Kingston, Jamaica, Jan. 22.

Before the fight Roman's manager Bill Daly said he had changed strategy. He said Roman would not run too much but would mix it up when Foreman missed.

Roman was no match for the champion, who at 219 ¼ pounds had a 22 ½ pound weight advantage and a five and a half inch reach advantage.

The World Boxing Association originally had not sanctioned the Foreman-Roman match as a championship fight because it said Roman was not among the top ten contenders. But it reconsidered later after the World Boxing Council had approved the match as a championship fight. The WBA consequently rated Roman the number nine contender.

Daly said, "Roman was down when Foreman hit him with a left to the chin. It was a foul and Roman never recovered from that punch."

Referee Edson denied that it was a foul. He said, "Roman was knocked down and Foreman was merely following through with his punches and hit him."

"I have to give Roman credit for moving around and fighting courageously, but is was a 100 per cent mismatch. You might say it was a 150 per cent mismatch," Edson added.

The promoters, Nippon Education Television, announced the crowd for the noonday fight at 8,000. They said Foreman was getting $1 million and Roman $100,000.

It was Foreman's 30th win, including 36 knockouts. For Roman, it was his eighth defeat against 46 wins and one draw.

Foreman arrived here Aug. 15 and astonished Japanese boxing writers and officials by training seriously with daily sparring of four-to-eight rounds although it was the consensus in Tokyo that he would stop the unknown challenger inside of five rounds.

Foreman laughed at reports that he might carry Roman for a few rounds to give the promoters a show. He said, "anything can happen in a fight. One punch can decide the outcome. I am not underestimating Roman and I will be out there throwing a punch to knock him out in the very first round if possible."

Rams present Knox with first win

By MIKE RAWLINSON
P-B Staff Writer

LOS ANGELES — The rams ran around, through and over ex-teammates Deacon Jones and Coy Bacon Friday night to give rookie head coach Chuck Knox his first victory in Los Angeles.

True, the Chargers are not the Dallas Cowboys or the Miami Dolphins, but the 30-17 victory at the Coliseum eased the frustration of fans, coaches and players alike, and may have provided momentum for L. A.'s final exhibition next Friday against visiting San Francisco. The attendance was 57,366.

Running backs Jim Bertelson, Larry McCutcheon and Tony Baker led a Ram ground attack that moved the ball almost at will against the Chargers who boasted both former Ram defensive greats Bacon and Jones.

Bertelson accounted for 97 yards from scrimmage before the final period had even begun, and added another 77 yards on punt returns, including a 50-yarder in the third quarter, for a 174-yard evening.

The Rams were directed by quarterback John Hadl, the former Charger, who let his runners do most of the work. His counterpart, the aging veteran Johnny Unitas, didn't have the horses to do the same and tried to pull the Chargers from behind alone.

The best he could do, however, was get as close as 7-3 at the end of the first quarter.

It was a glowing overall improvement for the Rams who hadn't won (0-3-1) in four previous exhibition games. It was most obvious in the rushing department with a Bertelson-led attack that gained 282 yards on 57 carries. Bertelson led with 97 yards. Baker had 69 yards on 13 totes and McCutcheon 53 on 13 carries.

It was noticeable too in the newfound accuracy of placed kicker David Ray, who booted three field goals in five tries.

The Rams had put the game away by intermission. But Unitas refused to give in, pecking away with passes that eventually totaled 286 yards, two touchdowns, on 18 completions on 31 attempts. One was intercepted by cornerback Al Clark, and it set up Ray's final field goal of the night, a 27-yarder with 10:19 remaining in the game.

It gave the Rams a 30-10 lead and that was the way it would have ended, except for Unitas.

A couple of minutes later Johnny U hit former Ram Bobby Thomas on a 41 yard play that accounted for the final score.

After taking a 20-10 led to the dressing room at halftime, the Rams came back to score again on the first play of the fourth period on a one yard blast by Baker, which followed Bertelsen's 50 yard punt return. The key play was Hadl's five-yard, sideline pass to Jack Snow.

The Ram quarterback had a mediocre evening, completing seven of 15 attempts for 57 yards with no touchdowns, no interceptions.

"Any time you win it's great," said Knox afterwards. "But this was particularly sweet for all of us, because we worked so hard. It's been a frustrating preseason."

Unitas led the Chargers back from a 20-3 deficit in the final two minutes of the half with passes to Norman and Williams which ate up 87 yards and culminated in a 28-yard scoring strike to Williams with only 52 seconds remaining.

Unitas looked 10 years younger than his 40 years while moving the Chargers to within 10 points of the Rams. The veteran of 18 NFL seasons completed nine of 13 attempts for 155 yards in the first 30 minutes. The only thing marring the showing were two fumbles—but they were recovered by San Diego.

The Rams scored on their second series of the game in the first period pushing 54 yards in seven plays following a fine 22-yard punt return by Bertelsen.

The former Texas Wishbone star alternated with McCutcheon on the drive which followed and the pair accounted for all Ram yardage before Mac punched the ball into the end zone from the one yard line on the seventh play from scrimmage. It was the first Ram touchdown rushing in preseason play.

Larry Smith got No. 2 in the second quarter on a three yard sweep around the left side. The scoring play was set up by Isiah Robertson's fumble recovery and 24 yard return after cornerback Eddie McMillan separated the ball from Norman, who caught a pass from Unitas.

Sandwiched between the two Ram touchdowns were a pair of field goals of 35 and 26 yards—by Ray, who entered the contest with a slump-plagued 1-for-10 record in the preseason.

Lee May's ninth-inning homer dumps Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Lee May's 22nd homer of the season, a two-run shot into the leftfield pavilion with none out in the ninth inning, gave the Houston Astros a 3-2 victory over the Los Angeles Dodgers Friday night behind Tom Griffin's four-hit pitching.

May's game-winning hit came off Dodgers' relief ace Jim Brewer, now 6-7, after Doug Rader opened the Houston ninth with an infield single and went to second on shortstop Bill Russell's throwing error.

Brewer, who couldn't hold a 5-2 lead in the last inning at Montreal Wednesday night but registered his 18th save of the year in a 6-5 win over the Astros here Thursday night, had just come in the game in relief of rookie righthander Doug Rau.

Griffin registered his first victory of the year against five defeats while striking out nine. Joe Ferguson of the Dodgers belted a two-out ninth inning homer into the leftfield stands, his 22nd of the year with the bases empty.

Rau, pitching in place of the ailing Don Sutton, turned in eight strong innings before being removed for a pinchhitter in the eighth. He gave up four hits and walked five.

The Astros took a 1-0 first inning lead on a leadoff walk to Jim Wynn, a single to left by Cesar Cedeno and Rader's sacrifice fly.

In the fourth, the Dodgers tied the score. Von Joshua, playing center for the injured Willie Davis, doubled to center, went to third on Bill Buckner's infield out, and came home on Willie Crawford's single.

Wood notches 22nd win against Angels, 7-2

CHICAGO (UPI) —Carlos May drove in two runs and scored another and Wilbur Wood, with eighth inning relief from Cy Acosta, gained his 22nd victory Friday night as the Chicago White Sox beat the California Angels 7-2.

May singled, advanced on a wild pitch and came home on Bill Sharp's single for Chicago's first run in the second inning. The Sox tallied two runs in the third when Pat Kelly doubled, Tony Muser walked, Jerry Hairston forced Kelly at third, Bill Melton and May both walked to force in a run and Hairston scored on Jorge Orta's fielder's choice.

Ed Herrmann hit his 10th homer in the sixth for Chicago while in the seventh, singles by Hairston and Orta and a hit batsman filled the bases before Hairston scored on reliever Steve Barber's wild pitch.

The Sox scored twice more in the eighth when Bucky Dent was safe on an error, advanced on a sacrifice and Muser's single and after Hairston walked, scored on Melton's sacrifice fly. May then singled to score Muser.

Acosta took over with one out in the eighth inning after Mike Epstein had walked and Vada Pinson singled to put runners on first and second with one out. Acosta struck out Lee Stanton and pinch-hitter Tommy McCraw to end the inning.

Wood allowed 10 hits, walked two and struck out four to run his season record to 22-18 with his second straight victory after seven straight failures attempting to win his 21st game.

Both California runs came in the fifth on a single by Stanton, Jeff Torborg's double, an infield out by Sandy Alomar which scored Stanton and Winston Llenas' pinch-single.

Bill Singer took the loss, his 11th against 17 wins and his third in four decisions against the White Sox.

Rodney to sing at Cal 500 Sun.

ONTARIO — Rodney Allen Rippy, the five-year-old spokesman for Jack-in-the-Box, will sing "God Bless America" at the start of the California "500" at Ontario Motor Speedway on Sunday. MC for the event is comedian Marty Allen.

Rodney will squeeze the performance into his heavy schedule which includes featured roles in the motion picture "Stagolee," in a t.v. pilot, and for the long and short of it, an interview with Rosey Grier on the Democratic Party telethon.

Tickets for the fourth annual auto race are available through all Ticketron outlets.

Metcalf falls in U.S. Open play

FOREST HILLS — Claremont's Janice Metcalf lost her second round match of the women's singles division to Houston's Julie Heldman, 7-6, 6-7, and 6-3.

Stan Smith closes in on Forest Hills Open title

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (UPI) —Stan Smith took another step toward regaining his U.S. Open tennis title Friday as the defending champion and co-first seed, Ilie Nastase of Romania, was upset by Rhodesia's Andrew Pattison.

Smith, of Sea Pines, S.C., blasted 16-year-old Billy Martin of Palos Verdes, Calif., 6-3, 6-2, 6-1 on another day of intense heat and humidity at the West Side Tennis Club, while Nastase made a brief five-minute, two-game appearance as he tried to save his championship.

Nastase trailed 3-5 in the fifth set Thursday when darkness halted his match with Pattison, a man he had beaten four times previously and to whom he had never dropped even a set. He held service to 30, saved one match point in the 10th game but a cutoff volley eventually finished him off. The score was 6-7, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4, 6-4.

The temperamental Romanian, the tour's leading moneywinner last year, had to settle for a check of $400, change compared with the $25,000 pot which awaits the winner.

Smith, who feels Nastase can be "pretty obnoxious at times," said he felt sorry for the long-haired European. "I would like to have seen him make the final, as long as I also got there, but tennis is a game of winning and losing."

Nastase did not make any excuses. "Pattison returned service well in the last three sets and served well himself. That spelled the difference." He plans a week off before rejoining the tour in Los Angeles.

Nastase was not the only seed to fall. Smith's Davis Cup teammate Marty Riessen, the 12th choice from Evanston, Ill., went out in straight sets to lanky New Zealander Onny Parun, 6-3, 7-6, 7-6. "It always happens here," Riessen said as he headed toward the clubhouse.

But while Nastase and Riessen stumbled — Briton Roger Taylor got bounced as the sun set Thursday —the other seeds progressed.

Arthur Ashe, the third choice from Miami, Fla., took Sherwood Stewart of Houston, 6-4, 6-2, 6-2; seventh-seeded Tom Okker of the Netherlands drumped Paul Gerken of East Norwalk, Conn., 7-5, 6-3, 6-7, 7-6; 13th choice Tom Gorman of Seattle, won a battle of serves from bearded Swede Ove Bengtson, 7-5, 7-5, 6-3, while 15th-seeded Nikki Pilic of Yugoslavia, "glad to be playing again after the furor caused by my Wimbledon entry being rejected," beat Anand Amritraj of India, 7-5, 5-7, 7-6, 6-4.

Late in the day, with the crowd having forgotten Nastase's upset loss, the rest of the seeds went out and won their places in the last 32.

Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, the sixth seed, who won the Wimbledon title in the absence of the circuit's stars earlier this year, beat Jim McManus of Berkeley, Calif. 7-5, 6-3, 6-7, 6-1, eighth seed Manuel Orantes of Spain beat Ian Fletcher of Australia, 6-2, 3-6, 7-5, 6-3, and ninth choice Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., took Chile's Jaime Fillol, 6-4, 4-6, 7-5, 7-6.

Kodes, the most underrated of the circuit's stars—he has won two French titles and been in the finals here—appeared in control when he served for the match in the 10th game of the third set. But he dropped his delivery to 15, then lost the tie break 5-3, before blowing the short, stocky McManus off the court in the fourth set.

Fillol saved two match points against Connors in the fourth set and went on to break service to tie it up at 5-5, but Jimmy came back in the tie break to clinch it 5-3 and nail down his victory.

The overall improvement of the game around the world was illustrated by the fact 16 nations have representatives in the last 32, with the United States leading the way with 10 against seven for Australia.

Smith, who dropped a set to the young Martin last year when he opened the championships on the Stadium court, said: "Young Billy will be a good one in a few years. I did not treat him like a novice—you get into trouble thinking like that."

Martin, who looked as if he had just come out of the swimming pool he intended to head for, said: "I got tired after the first set. My energy just drained away. After that I just wanted to get the thing finished with."

Ashe, beaten finalist here last year and winner of the first Open in 1968, said "I played well within myself. Sherwood did not get many first serves in and that took the pressure off."

Gerken saved three match points in the third set against Okker, took the match into the tie-break, which he won 5 points to 2, but could not counter the Dutchman's amazing retrieving skills in the fourth set.

Friday's winners moved into the third round to join three Australian former champions— Rod Laver, Ken Rosewall and John Newcombe — who advanced Thursday.

On the distaff side, Chris Evert of Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., was the first of the eight seeds to reach the third round. She broke service in the sixth game of each set in registering a 6-2, 6-2 win over Marita Redondo of National City, Calif.

WHO'S SHOWING WHO? — It's hard to say whether Dodger pitcher Andy Messersmith is showing Taiwan's Huang Ching-Hui how to hold the ball or vice versa. Huang was the hero of the Little League World Series, in which he pitched three no-hit games as Taiwan won the title.

Dodger's Rau understands why he has to sit and wait

LOS ANGELES (UPI) Doug Rau understands why he must sit instead of pitch.

"This is one helluva pitching staff," said the talented rookie lefthander of the Los Angeles Dodgers,

The Dodgers think their five starters—Don Sutton, Claude Osteen, Andy Messersmith, Tommy John and Al Downing— are the best in baseball. The club's position in the National League West would seem to back up that contention.

"There's no way you can break into that staff," Rau admitted. "Especially, the way we've won this year."

At 24, the Dodgers' No. 1 selection in the January, 1970, free agent draft has a bright future in the big leagues—as a starter. But as the season moves into its final month, his place is behind Jim Brewer and Pete Richert in the Dodger bullpen.

"I'm disappointed I haven't pitched more this season," said Rau candidly, "because it's in my emotional makeup to pitch as much as I can. The more I pitch, the more effective I am, too. Still, I think the year with the Dodgers has been a lot more beneficial than another year in the minors would have been."

The young southpaw has compiled a 4-1 record and a 3.71 ERA in 45 2-3 innings as Walter Alston's long relief man.

"Statistics mean nothing when you're in the bullpen," he noted. "One bad game and your ERA is way out of sight. It's nice to have four wins, though."

A 6-foot 2, 175-pounder, Rau hopes to play a role in the closing days of the division race between the Dodgers and the Cincnnati Reds.

"Anything I can do to help," he smiled. "They're (the Reds) going to be tough because of their World Series experience but I think we have the overall ability."

While no promises have been made, Rau is optimistic about his chances of breaking into the Dodgers' starting rotation in 1973.

"If I get a good shot next spring," he said, "I think I can make it. Of course, it's not going to be the easiest thing in the world."

Debutante tops racing at Del Mar

DEL MAR — The 23rd running of the Del Mar Debutante, one of Western racing's most significant events for two-year-old fillies, will climax an action-packed holiday weekend of Thoroughbred sport when it highlights the program Labor Day Monday.

Four stakes will be featured in as many days over the elongated weekend which will begin Friday with the $20,000-added Balboa Stakes for non-stakes winning two-year-olds at about 7½-furlongs on the turf.

Saturday's headliner is the $25,000-added Escondido Handicap for older horses at a mile and one-eighth on the grass and it will be followed Sunday by the $20,000-added El Cajon Stakes for three-year-olds, also on the grass at nine furlongs.

D.B. trio lead swim victory

DIAMOND BAR — Cindy Shockley, Todd Bramwell and Eileen Lynch captured three gold medals each to lead the Diamond Bar Jaycee swim team to a strong performance in the Culver Ctiy Jaycee Swim Meet.

The event was composed of jaycee chapters all over the Southern California region and included over 200 swimmers.

The locals won 10 gold medals, two silver and seven bronze, the most by any team from a given area.

There were a total of 63 possible medals with 21 of those being gold. DB came home with 29 medals all toil.

Others receiving medals were ; Daniel Novinski, one silver and two bronze; Neal Foley, one gold and two bronze; Ken Lynch, three bronze; Michael Bentley, one silver and a fifth place ribbon; and Michelle Boyette, fifth and sixth place ribbons. Six year-old Deborah Wilson, competing against eight year-olds, just missed a ribbon.

Annual Baldy run set for Monday

MT. BALDY — At least 80 of the best distance runners in Southern California are expected to line up for the start of the Mt. Baldy Run to the Peak, an eight mile foot race to the top of the peak from the parking lot of the Mt. Baldy Ski Lift, Monday.

Starting at 10 in the morning, the first runner is expected to reach the peak in a little over an hour. The course covers paved highway, Forest Service fire roads, and finally foot trails as the runners climb into the clouds. They will pass San Antonio Falls, Baldy Notch, and finally the Devil's Backbone in their race to the highest peak in Los Angeles county, over 10,000 feet above sea level.

The race, sanctioned by the Southern Pacfic Association of the Amateur Athletic Union, is being directed by members of the Mt. Baldy Fire Department, who will supply the contestants with water along the way and who will be ready with first aid equipment. The firemen volunteer their time to help the race go off efficently over the 4,000 foot climb.

In this race, considered one of the most arduous on the racing calander, there will be a number of classes, with awards in each class. Besides the open class, there will be a class for senior runners (over 40 years of age), a class for high school and junior high students, and a class for women. The awards for the race will be presented at the swimming pool of the Snow Crest Lodge at 1:30 in the afternoon.

No closed-circuit TV for Ali-Norton fight

INGLEWOOD —There will NOT be any closed circuit television in Los Angeles County for the 12-round North American heavyweight championship bout between Muhammad Ali and Ken Norton Monday, Sept. 10, at The Forum, according to Don Fraser, vice president and promoter for Forum Boxing Inc.

"Rumors that the fight will be shown at theaters and arenas in Los Angeles are absolutely false," said Fraser.

"Good tickets ranging in price from $100 to $12.50 are available for the live fight at The Forum," adds Fraser, "and we expect to gross more than $700,000 for the greatest boxing gate in California State history."

The present State gate record is $383,080 produced by the Jose Becerra-Alphonse Halimi world bantamweight title fight at the Los Angeles Coliseum in 1960.

Scolinos talks at YTS

CHINO — Cal Poly baseball coach John Scolinos' address highlighted the Chino Youth Training School Softball Awards Banquet program Wednesday evening.

Scolinos' comments included baseball anecedotes showing how an individual can become a loser in any segment of society.

Trophies were presented to first thru third place teams in the schools softball league, and to Player of the Year Robert George and most Inspirational Player Robert Banks.

JUSTICE FRANK J. KRONEBERG, of the New York State Supreme Court, ruled Thursday that Erie County has the right to name the county's new 80,000-seat football stadium "Rich Stadium."

Club receives proclamation

POMONA — A proclamation by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors was presented to the Sacred Heart Athletic Club recently.

The proclamation included congratulations to the boxing club for claiming the team trophy in the AAU Junior Olympic national championship in Cheyenne, Wy.

Gold medal winners were also mentioned in the proclamation. Among them were Francisco Flores, Ricky Wiegel, Tony Cerda Jr., and Don Wyne.

Lakers sign top college rebounder

INGLEWOOD — Kermit Washington, the nation's leading college rebounder for the last two years, Friday signed a multi-year contract with the Los Angeles Lakers.

No terms were announced.

Washington, the Lakers' No. 1 draft selection from American University became the seventh player in NCAA history to average 20 points and 20 rebounds per game for his career. The other six were Bill Russell (USF), Elgin Baylor (Seattle), Julius Erving (Massachusetts), Artis Gilmore (Jacksonville), Paul Silas (Creighton) and Wally Dukes (Seton Hall).

Kermit ranks eighth on the all-time rebounding list with 20.2 per game. Bill Russell is seventh, Julius Erving ninth and Elgin Baylor tenth.

The 22-year-old ended his American University career as the Eagles' all-time leading rebounder with 1,478 and third-leading scorer with 1,467 points.

At 6-8, 230 pounds, Kermit was not only a dominating force on the court, but also a dean's list student, an academic all-American with an overall grade point average of 3.07 as a psychology major.

Washington also became the first player from a Washington area team to make AP's first team. He joins Baylor, Dave Bing and Austin Carr as Washington D.C. natives named to the first team.

Soccer clinic sets meetings

UPLAND — The West End Soccer Clinic held the first of five meetings Thursday at the Colony Park Recreation Bldg. at 7:30 p.m.

All previous coaches and referees and those interested in becoming either a coach or referee for the upcoming season are urged to attend.

No previous knowledge of the game is necessary, just a love for, and an ability to handle children. Women are also invited.

The remaining meetings will be held Tuesday and Thursday evenings beginning at 7:30 p.m. for the next three weeks. Mr. Fritz Rosenveldt will conduct the meetings.

Thoughts

From the Living Bible

No one who has become part of God's family makes a practice of sinning, for Christ, God's Son, holds him securely and the devil cannot get his hands on him. We know that we are children of God and that all the rest of the world around us is under Satan's power and control. And we know that Christ, God's Son, has come to help us understand and find the true God. And now we are in God because we are in Jesus Christ his Son, who is the only true God; and he is eternal Life. I John 5:18-21

Ontario couple to perform missionary work in Africa

ONTARIO — The Rev. and Mrs. Darell T. Weist of 1352 W .Fifth St. are among the 16 new or reinstated missionaries being sent for service in Asia and Africa this fall and winter by the United Methodist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Weist are scheduled to go to Sierra Leone, Africa.

The group is going out under auspices of the World Division of the United Methodist Board of Global Ministries. The group includes persons new to mission service, some who have been special-term workers now transferring to regular service and some bing reinstated after several years' absence from overseas service.

The missionaries are scheduled to go to India, Pakistan, Botswana, Rhodesia, Sierra Leone and Zaire. Among types of occupational skills represented in the group are teaching, agricultural extension, evangelism and pastoral service, nursing, student and young adult ministries, and social work. A majority are preparing for their new assignments at the Missionary Orientation Center, Stony Point, N.Y., this summer.

Mr. Weist attended Westmar College, Le Mars, Iowa, and was graduated in 1962 with a bachelor of arts degree in natural science and philosophy. He received the master of divinity degree in 1965 from Evangelical Theological Seminary, Naperville, Ill., and the doctor of religion degree from the School of Theology at Claremont, in 1972.

From 1971 to 1973, Mr. Weist was associate director of the University Religious Center at UC Riverside and director of the Young Adult Center. Previously he was director of the United Christian Ministry at UC Riverside; director of United Ministries in Higher Education at Kearney State College, Kearney, Neb.; assistant pastor of Faith United Methodist Church in Kearney, and student assistant at Community United Methodist Church in Naperville. He is a member of the Southern California-Arizona United Methodist Conference.

Mrs. Weist attended Westmar College and was graduated in 1962 with a bachelor of arts degree in elementary education and English. She has done additional study at Kearney State College and UC Riverside. She has had a career as a public school teacher in Downers Gove, Ill.; Kearney, Neb., and the Ontario-Montclair School District.

God forgives...his rules prevail

"God will forgive me," Voltaire said in a famous deathbed wisecrack. "That's his specialty."

Many people today have similar ideas about God.

They've bees told so often that God is love, that God is forgiving, understanding and compassionate, they've come to think of Him as a sort of indulgent Grandfather in Heaven who'll overlook any human offense.

But this is only a half-truth, which may be more dangerous than an outright lie. It's true the Bible depicts God as patient and merciful and toward the creatures called human beings who've evolved over aeons of time on a planet which constitutes a tiny speck in His vast universe.

God's mercy toward human frailty, His eagerness to be reconciled with any man who turns back to Him after wandering off into self-indulgence and sin, are graphically described in Jesus' parable of the prodigal son. There we see God likened to a human father who sees his errant son returning broke and chastened after blowing in all his money on wild living in a distant land. The father rushes out while the son is "yet a long way off," and without a single word of reproof, embraces him and warmly welcomes him home.

But the biblical emphasis on God's goodness and loving kindness was intended to correct a propensity, common among people of an earlier time, to view God as a distant, angry, capricious Judge. It was never meant to encourage the opposite modern tendency to think of Him as the Supreme Patsy.

"I greatly fear," said a young pastor recently, "that we have tried too hard to 'sell' God to people, to cajole them into believing in Him because he's such a Nice Guy."

The late C. S. Lewis shared that concern. Instead of fearing God as our Judge, he said, people today put God "in the dock" that is, on trial —with the implicit proviso that if He sounds likable and plausible, they'll honor Him by believing in His existence.

But the reality of God and His sovereignty over the universe are —if they are true at all —facts which are not contingent on human realization or acceptance.

TOM HARRIS

Ex-drug user, boxer to talk at Men's Club

UPLAND — Tom Harris, a former Golden Gloves boxing champion from Ontario, will tell members of the Christian Business Men's Club of his experiences Tuesday at 6:45 a.m. at the Brigham's Restaurant.

A recent film made by and and starring Don Murray depicts the life of Harris who admits to being an ex-hoodlum and former alcoholic and drug user.

Now a Christian, Harris travels around the country speaking to youth groups and other organizations. He is now a guest speaker at the same prisons and road camps in which he once was imprisoned.

The film, "Confessions of Tom Harris," is being shown throughout the United States.

Presbyterian pastor back

20 youths to leave on Yosemite trip

LA VERNE — The Rev. John R. Springer will return to the pulpit of the La Verne Heights Presbyterian Church Sunday at the 9:30 a.m. service after a vacation.

His sermon theme will be "Christ of the Upward Way" and the children's sermon will be "Don't Feed the Bears."

Twenty high school young people will leave after the service for the third annual trail conference. They will visit Saddlebag Lake, McCabe Lakes, Glen Aulin and Tuolumne Meadows in Yosemite.

United names Wilson as director of music

A reception in his honor will be conducted Sept. 9 between services.

Wilson will direct both the senior and junior choirs and will have the general supervision of the musical program of the church.

He holds degrees from both Whittier and Occidental colleges. He is active in musical direction at the Valley Community Theater, serving as vice president this past year.

He is a member of Phi Mu Alpha, honorary music fraternity, and of the Choral Conductor's Guild.

RALPH SIMONTON

Rev. Simonton to be pastor at Landmark

POMONA — The Rev. Ralph Simonton has been named pastor of the First Landmark Missionary Baptist Church.

A native of Maine, the new pastor retired from the U.S. Air Force in July 1972 after 20 years of service. He was ordained to the ministry in June of this year at the Antioch Missionary Baptist Church of Orange.

He is presently a student at the California Missionary Baptist Institute at Beilflower.

His family includes his wife, Dianne, and one son, Paul. The family will move to this area in the next few weeks from Garden Grove.

The local congregation is a member of the Paradise Valley Association and the American Baptist Association.

Man can't go because he doesn't exist

BLYTH, England (UPI) —All Neville Reid wants is to go on vacation to Spain, but British authorities won't let him because they say he doesn't exist.

Reid is married, has three children and pays taxes, but officials say since he was found abandoned as a baby on Reid Street in Glasgow in 1939 and has no birth or baptismal certificates, they can't issue him a passport. Reid was named Neville after the then prime minister Neville Chamberlain and Reid after the street he was found on.

Children's music workshop ready

POMONA — The music department of the White Avenue Baptist Church will sponsor a children's music workshop for youngsters in grade one through six Thursday and Friday at the church.

Mrs. Barbara Sanders, children's choir coordinator, will direct the program activities. The program will start Thursday at 10 a.m. and will conclude at 2 p.m. Lunch will be served by mothers of choir members.

Friday's activities will begin at 9 a.m. and continue until noon. Displays will be used and the Baroque method of playing the recorder will be taught. Older youngsters will learn new anthems and a cantata.

The entire workshop will perform in combined choirs on Friday morning. Parents are invited to attend the Friday morning session.

The Funmobile from the Pomona Public Library will be at the workshop on Friday morning.

Fewer vices reported among religious youth

NEW YORK (UPI) — Religious upbringing and respect for authority have inhibited smoking, drinking, the use of soft drugs and sexual behavior among middle class youths in mid-America, a study showed today.

The study, by three Michigan State University social scientists, focused on 4,220 persons aged 13-17 in three Western Michigan communities.

The social scientists—Drs. Arthur M. Vener, Cyrus S. Stewart and Mary Zaenglein,— said they found younger adolescents in the communities were more attuned to religious orthodoxy than older ones. They said orthodoxy declined with age and was more prevalent among girls than boys.

Girls also were more oriented to authority than boys.

Age was a factor in the areas of both orthodoxy and authority, they told a meeting of the American Sociological Association, but respect for authority was more of an inhibitor than religious orthodoxy in most cases — particularly those involving drug use.

The survey, conducted in 1968, also showed that adolescents were not conforming to reported national shifts toward freer sex behavior, according to an earlier report by the team.

Mrs. Swank named director

POMONA — Mrs. Francis Swank has been named director of the Sunshine Christian Pre-school, according to Dwayne Hobgood, chairman of the school board.

Mrs. Ruby Morris will serve as assistant director. The school opens for fall sessions Tuesday from 6:30 a.m. until 5:30 p.m. Monday through Friday for youngsters 2½ to six years.

FLYING HIGH—Atoy Wilson, the only black professional skater, stars in the Shipstads & Johnson Ice Follies which opens a 10-day engagement at the Forum in Inglewood next Wednesday night. The ice show will offer seven production numbers, a chorus line of skaters and several skating comics. Tickets are on sale at the box office and at Ticketron agencies. Evening performances are at 8 o'clock.

Pianist slates performances at Magic Mountain theater

VALENCIA — Pianist Roger Williams will perform in the Showcase Theater of Magic Mountain Tuesday through Sept. 9. Showtimes are 8 and 10 p.m.

Magic Mountain's one-price admission policy entitles guests to unlimited use of the park's 35-plus rides and attractions, plus entry to performances by show business' top stars.

Williams, since his emergence in 1955 with his first hit, "Autumn Leaves," has sold more albums than any other pianist in th history of recordings — the total of 15 million.

Before Williams was 3, he could play piano by ear, and a year later he wrote his first original composition. By the time he was 8, he not only played the piano, but had mastered 12 other instruments and developed a one-man act for church socials.

The many contests he won started Roger toward fame. First he won the Arthur Godfrey "Talent Scouts" program, then $1,000 on "Chance of a Lifetime." Engagements in top hotels followed.

Although records have opened the artistry of Roger Williams to the world, he is well-known as a personality across the country and in foreign lands because of his numerous concert tours. He is an occasional guest on top television shows and a performer in major clubs.

In addition to Williams' performance, Magic Mountain presents entertainment throughout the park — including nightly fireworks displays at 9.

Magic Mountain, open daily from 10 a.m. to midnight, is located 25 minutes north of Hollywood on the Golden State Freeway.

Hollywood Bowl sets final week

HOLLYWOOD — The 10th and final week of the Hollywood Bowl summer season will offer regular concerts Sept. 11, 13 and 15, and a final marathon, "Totally 20th Centry," Sept. 12.

James De Preist, in his third summer at the Bowl, conducts the Sept. 11 and 13 events, the first with pianist Gary Graffman as soloist playing Beethoven's Third Concerto, the second with violinist Ivry Gitlis in a performance of the Tchaikovksy Concerto.

Graffman returns Sept. 15 to participate in the Pops Spectacular Finale under Arthur Fiedler, when he plays Rachmaninoff's Second Concerto. The program features Handel's "Music for the Royal Fireworks" with the now traditional fireworks display.

The 6 p.m. to midnight "Totally 20th Century Marathon" Sept. 12 surveys 73 years of music. Included on the program, directed by Lukas Foss, are works by Debussy, Carter, Ravel, Crumb, Prokofieff, Stockhausen, Mahler, Bartok, Hindemith, Berg, Stravinsky and others. Featured will be Boulez's ". . . explosante fixe. . . ." in its West Coast premiere.

Guest on the marathon is Gitlis. Others participating are the Hollywood Bowl Marathon Chorale, Roger Wagner conducting; singers Joanna Simon, Marvin Hayes, Douglas Lawrence, Roger Patterson and Mallory Walker, and pianists Delores Stevens and Richard Bunger.

The marathon is on an unreserved-seat, first come, first served basis; admission is $1.50.

De Preist's career as a conductor began with his winning the Dimitri Mitropoulos International Conductors Competition in 1964. Following this, he served as assistant to Leonard Bernstein with the New York Philharmoic; in 1971 he was appointer to his present post, associate conductor of Washington, D.C.'s National Symphony. De Preist made his bowl debut conducting the Tchaikovsky Spectacular in 1971, and last year returned to conduct two summer concerts.

Graffman went on his first world tour in 1958, and now is one of the most active artists on the international circuit. Trained at Philadelphia's Curtis Institute of Music, and later a student of both Horowitz and Serkin, Graffman was the winner of the Leventritt Award in 1949. He has appeared with the Philharmonic many times, both at the Music Center and the Bowl.

Gitlis, born in Haifa, Israel, received much of his training at Paris' National Conservatory. After serving in the British Army's artists' branch in World war II, he made his successful debut with the London Philharmonic.

Television shows to alter formats

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — A number of well-known television series are going into the new fall season with their situations somewhat altered from the past.

Dean Martin's weekly NBC-TV show is one of these. Switched from Thursday to Friday nights, it will emphasize comedy more and feature a regular segment in which prominent personalities are "roasted" by performers and other celebrities. Roasted on the season premiere Sept. 14 is California Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The National Geographic Society's occasional, and usually excellent, one-hour documentaries are also in a bit of a different situation than in the past. They have been switched from CBS-TV to ABC-TV, a network that has had unusual success with another series of notable documentaries, the Jacques Cousteau undersea specials.

National Geographic specials have earned top video ratings, and observers will be watching to see if the network switch has any effect on this (ABC-TV has fewer affiliate stations than CBS-TV, and therefore is almost always up against tougher odds in getting ratings).

ABC-TV's first National Geographic hour, "Wind Raiders of the Sahara," concerning a land yacht expedition, airs next Thursday.

A series that the television industry expects to benefit from a new situation is CBS-TV's weekly comedy "MASH," which has been switched from Sunday to a Saturday time slot that immediately follows the high-rated show "All In the Family" on the network.

"MASH," which arrives in its new program period Sept. 15, focuses on combat-weary surgeons in the Korean war who instinctively rely on their own brand of irreverence and humor to provide them with relief from the tension and insanity around them. Directing six of the first 13 episodes is Jackie Cooper.

Yet another series with an altered situation is Alistair Cooke's 13-episode personal tour of the nation's history, "America," which was seen last season on NBC-TV. A memorable series, it was broadcast at a late hour—too late for many youngsters who might have profited from it—and so it will be repeated at earlier times on a syndicated basis starting in September.

Among the new series, NBC-TV's innovative late-late talk program, "Tomorrow," which will follow the Monday-through-Thursday "Tonight" shows, has had its premiere date switched from Oct. 2 to Oct. 16. Hosting the one-hour "Tomorrow" broadcasts will be Tom Snyder, who is also a star anchorman for the evening news on NBC's Los Angeles television station.

Back among video's veteran series, ABC-TV's "Wide World of Sports" will try something new around midseason of the upcoming semester. Normally seen on Saturdays, it will, says the network, "be expanded to two telecasts per weekend for the first quarter of 1974," with the added programs airing on Sundays. An earlier ABC-TV press release did not indicate that the experiment was only for the first quarter of next year, so it is possible ABC-TV now wants to see how things work out on a short-term basis.

Meanwhile, a long-term television success, Walter Cronkite's evening CBS-TV news program, marks its 10th anniversary this weekend as network video's first half-hour news broadcast.

Free concert slated at MacArthur

LOS ANGELES — Richard Maltby and his swing band will present a free concert in the bandshell of MacArthur Park at 2 p.m. Sept. 9.

Maltby is an arranger-composer-conductor for TV networks, conductor for hundreds of numbers recorded for Muzak, and conductor of many albums of his own big band recorded for Label "X", Vik, Camden, Roulette and Columbia.

The concert is presented by the Music Performance Trust Funds of the Recording Industries and the Musicians Union Local 47, in cooperation with the Bureau of Music of the Los Angeles Municipal Arts Department.

GOING GREEK—Joel Grey, who won an Academy Award for his role in "Cabaret," will lead a musical revue at the Greek Theater Sept. 10 through 16. Now playing at the Greek are Liza Minnelli and Paul Williams, with a special midnight performance tonight. The Minnelli-Williams engagement is sold out.

Big bands to return to Pasadena

PASADENA — "Big Band Cavalcade," starring Bob Crosby, Freddy Martin and Margaret Whiting, will be presented in the Pasadena Civic Auditorium Sept. 23.

The show, a production of the Columbia Artists Festival Corp., leaves on a 12-week national tour after the Pasadena performance.

In addition to Martin and Crosby and Miss Whiting, two other band leaders and a prominent clarinetist join the company. They are Art Mooney and Buddy Morrow, who were band leaders immediately after World War II, and Peanuts Hucko, who has played the clarinet for many of the big bands.

The "Big Band Cavalcade" was inspired by Martin. Impressed with the way his recordings of songs popular in earlier days were selling, and aware of the revived interest in music of the '30s and '40s, he suggested to Columbia Artists that they build a showcase which would feature musicians of his type.

In "Cavalcade" each of the bandleaders and Miss Whiting use the same 13 musicians.

Rattles & straws

Many Cookes spoil the froth

By JOSEPH FIRMAN

The omniscient and ubiquitous Los Angeles Times recently sent one of its sports writers to interview Alistair Cooke, a British newspaper and television pundit who has spent the last 40 years interpreting the United States for his English audience.

Odd thing, that. Newspaper reporters interviewing each other. Like a doctor going to another doctor for treatment. A car dealer buying a used car from another agency. A barber having his hair cut by a rival. Journalism feeding on itself.

When you have spent 40 years interpreting anything, you are automatically a pundit. (I am half way to my punditship.) At that point in time, you, who have spent most of your life interviewing people, suddenly find yourself being interviewed.

Deeming Cooke, the dean of the Great British press, newsworthy, the Times' Bob Oates, for it was indeed he, asked the facile and observant British scribe what he thought of sports as played in the colonies.

"This has become a nation of spectators," opined Cooke. "American is a latterday Roman Empire. What happened to Rome is happening here. The people have been so confused and distressed by politics and corruption, by the cost of living, the stress of traffic, Watergate and by the rat race generally, that they demand bread and circuses."

Of all the Gaul! Bread and circuses, indeed. Try handing a loaf of bread to a beefy trucker at Dodger Stadium when he has his heart set on a hot dog and a cold beer, and he'd probably divide you into partes tres.

Alistair, who knows what's Cooke-ing, told Oates, who knows his, that American sports have become a spectacle to distract the attention of the moiling masses and popular populace from the legislative peccadilloes on Capitol Hill. If the Bard of Fleetstreet thinks a Giant-Dodger double-header will take our minds off of Watergate — he's right.

Latterday Roman Empire, eh? Bears thought. The Rams play in the Coliseum, don't they? The Lakers play in the Forum. Ominous parallels, I must say.

In America, "Sport and fun have become entertainment and big business," Cooke said. "From competitors to performers. It's a sad thing, really. The athletes have turned into entertainers. I suppose it is inevitable in the era of Raquel Welch. The payoff is on a narrow talent which makes athletes as desirable as say Frank Sinatra, and as extravagantly rewarded."

Narrow talent? Sinatra, yes; Welch no.

"Most modern athletes," Cooke said, "are what you might call flat-chested Raquel Welches."

I think that's grounds for Cooke being deported as an undesirable alien. Also a near-sighted alien.

Medics claim hostages suffering shell-shock

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Doctors said that four freed hostages dazed by "shellshock" from 131 hours in a bank vault at the point of a submachine gun may need several weeks of psychiatric treatment to recover from their ordeal.

Doctors compared the three women and a man, held by a bandit and his convict friend in a downtown Stockholm bank for 5-½ days, to war casualties.

Dr. Lennart Ljungberg, a St. Goeran Hospital psychiatrist, said the hostages were "still in the first phase of something resembling shellshock", a day after police firing tear gas stormed the vault to free them and capture the two desperados.

Dr. Jan Agrell, a specialist in military psychiatry, said "the methods normally used to break down a person's mind are identical to the treatment the hostages received."

One of the woman hostages— slim, dark-haired Kristin Enmark, 21—was quick to defend the two gun men and said at the hospital the bandits didn't harm any of the victims.

"I've read some of the newspapers," she said. "But it's all wrong. They never harmed us in any way. I never felt they really threatened me. We were more afraid that the police would do something which would put us in danger."

Psychiatrists, however, said she had been under "severe stress" and expressed doubts her description of the captivity was accurate.

Ljungberg said Kristin and the other hostages—Birgitta Lundblad, 31, Elizabeth Oldgren, 23, and the man Sven Saefstrom 25—"appear to be doing well under the circumstances and they are sleeping peacefully."

Their ordeal began when Jan-Erik Olsson, 32, an escaped convict, entered the government-owned Krediten bank office, seized the hostages and forced police to free from prison his convict friend, Clark Olofsson, 26, and bring him to the vault.

Olsson threatened to kill the hostages unless he and Olofsson were given safe conduct out of the bank with two of the hostages, $750,000, two loaded guns and a fast car.

Guard dog carefully from snakes in area

By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: Because our trip is to be in snake country, we are worried about our dog, Bubble. What chance does he have for survival if he were bitten? — M. C.

Dear M. C.: Snakebite survival for the canine (and other species) depends upon several factors, the most important being; (1) Whether or not the snake is poisonous. If so, (2) The relative amount of venom the victim receives (this depends upon the size of the victim and the amount of poison the snake injects. The smaller the amount of venom per pound of victim, the better the survival chances.) (3) The potency of the venom. Some species are more deadly than others. (4) Where the victim is bitten. Should rattlesnake venom pass directly into the bloodstream, for example, the chances of its proving fatal are greatly increased. If the bite is on the nose or surrounding areas, it may cause swelling so severe as to cause suffocation. (5) Proper care after the bite has taken place. This includes excision of the bitten area and drainage of venom—if you are physically or psychologically equipped to do this. (Such treatment has to take place immediately after the bite, of course, and must be in an area of the body where it can be done without causing extensive damage in the process.) Tourniquets are dangerous but may prove worth the risk involved if applied correctly, moved frequently and used judiciously. (Application to the neck for a head wound is NOT judicious.)

Don't freeze the bitten area but do keep it cool, in a cold stream or with ice. This is the best method of slowing poison absorption. The animal may also need to be covered to help reduce shock and generalized chilling. He should be kept quiet to halp save his strength, as well as to reduce the absorption rate.

Obviously, getting him in to the veterinarian if there is time is the best answer, though you couldn't expect the dog to walk any of that distance himself.

BARGAN BOX WANT ADS GET RESULTS

OUTGROWN HIS WHEELS

Is Junior really growing that fast or is the tricycle shrinking? Your next trip to the shoe store will give you a clue.

Junior's trike is a prime example of how the typical family outgrows things and how these things accumulate and get stored away.

Comes the day when you run out of storage space. Relax. Help is as near as your telephone. Simply call our Classified Advertising department and offer all these idle items for sale. You'll find eager buyers in a jiffy.

Of course, Want Ads work both ways. You'll probably find a good bargain in a bicycle that will put Junior back on wheels.

Growing families need bigger homes and bigger cars. You'll find these in ample supply in the Want Ads at budget-fitting prices.

Look at the Want Ads as a means of improving family living. You'll be surprised at the many ways available, and how little it will cost.

Returning to the good things in life

Scan profile: Charles Coulter

Music prof keeps busy

By JOSEPH H. FIRMAN

For trombonist Charles Allen Coulter this has been an interesting but not unusual summer.

A little handball, some swimming, work on the front lawn. Typical suburban summer? He played in a band for the Lipizzaner horse show in San Bernardino, studied Baroque trumpet at Stanford University for two weeks, then joined a band to play for Ringling Brothers and Barnum & Bailey Circus at the Forum in Inglewood for a couple of weeks. Then back to the front lawn.

Coulter is professor of music at Cal Poly, beginning his 13th year there. (When he started at the college the music department had one other man—now it has 10.)

With a polished professional trombone, a musician makes a variety of scenes, and Charlie, as his friends call him, has been the route, from Clyde McCoy's orchestra to grand opera in New York, from the Armco Band on national radio (he was 19-year-old baritone horn soloist) to the Phoenix Symphony (six years first trombonist), from church choir to the San Bernardino Civic Light Opera, from Ice Show to Orange Show.

Born in Pennsylvania, Coulter started playing the baritone horn in the seventh grade, and music has been his life since then. He played in and conducted more bands than he can count, through high school and college and into his later teaching career.

In the late 1930s, Coulter entered the national music competition sponsored by the Music Educators National Conference and, at the age of 15, came in third. (First place was won by a man who was later first trombone tor the Los Angeles Philharmonic for 25 years.) In 1938, having again won the city competition, the county, regional and state titles, he won first place in the national competition—named the best high school baritone horn player in the United States. Not bad for openers.

Coulter continued his music studies at Indiana State University in Indiana, Pa. (James Stewart's hometown). He then went on to earn a master's degree in music at Columbia University in New York, and has done additional study at Arizona State and Cal State San Diego.

Upon graduation from Columbia, the young musician came to a crossroads—an offer to go professional in studio work in New York City or trek westward to a teaching job at Phoenix High School. Weather or not, was the question.

"Afttr spending 28 years of my life in snow and ice, Phoenix looked pretty good," Coulter said in a recent interview in his handsome home on W. 10th Street in Claremont. "I just couldn't see New York in the winter. And I've never regretted my decision."

Coulter taught at Phoenix High School for 11 years, also giving private lessons on the side and playing in the Phoenix Symphony. Then he came to California and taught at Bonita High School for a year and at West Covina High School for a year before joining the one-man music staff at Cal Poly.

Coulter was married during World War II (he was a Navy blimp pilot cruising South America, rank of lieutenant) and he and his wife Adelaide recently celebrated their 30th anniversary. They have four children—Allen, 25, Lani, 24, Lila, 21 and Alice, 18. Allen played some trombone and Lani did the oboe thing, but none of the children has opted for a musical career, Coulter said.

Playing in opera orchestras, circus bands and night clubs has developed in Coulter an eclectic taste in music, a broad range of musical interests.

"I'm very fond of classical music," he said, "particularly Baroque—Handel and Bach. I don't particularly like opera, though I enjoy selections. I like jazz—I prefer the traditional to the modern. I like soft rock, but I don't play it—also country western. In fact, I like all music—except acid rock."

During his long musical career, Coulter studied choral directing with Roger Wagner, and for some 10 years conducted the Claremont United Methodist Church choir. He has also played with the Claremont Symphony Orchestra and the Pomona Concert Band.

Coulter has been a member of the Society for the Preservation of Dixieland Jazz since Claremont Symphony Orchestra and the Pomona Concert Band.

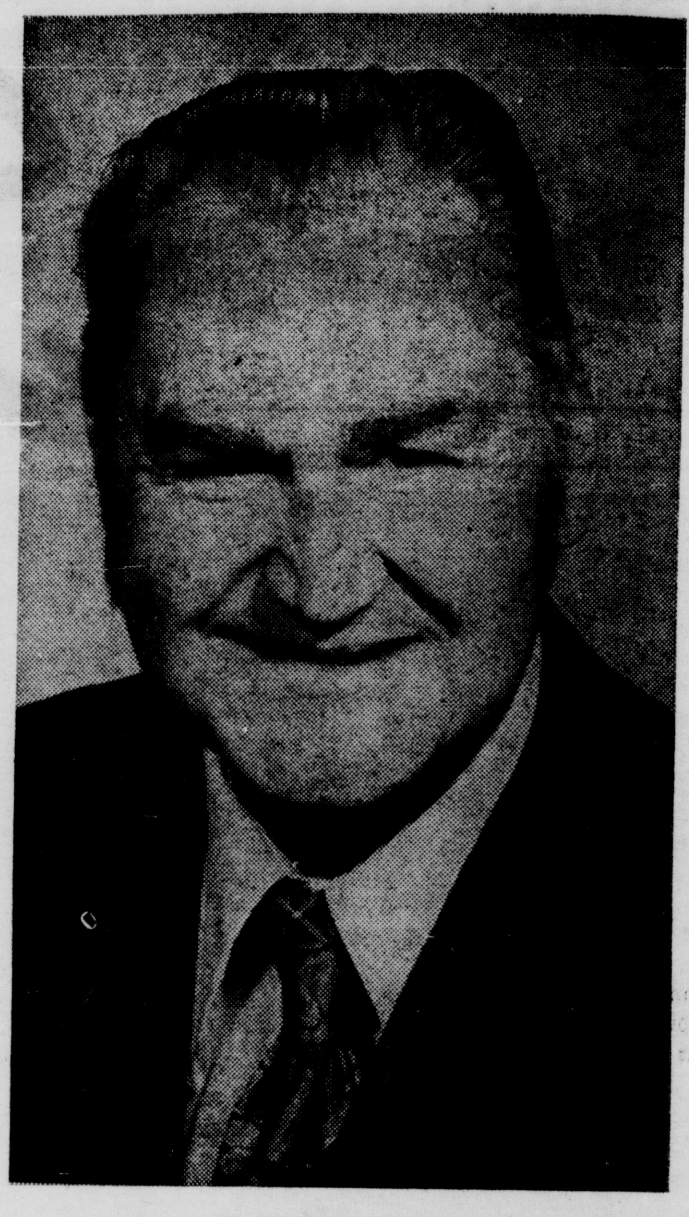

Coulter has been a member of the Society for the Preservation of Dixieland Jazz since it was organized 11 years ago, serving at various times as musical director and vice president. In January he was elected president.

"I joined the group because I enjoy Dixieland music," he said. "Another reason is that you meet so many fine individuals—people who are not only good musicians but great people to know."

Coulter, a relaxed, happy extrovert, has a fervent enthusiasm for Dixieland music.

"I think this part of the American heritage should be preserved," he said. "It's part of America's musical tradition. Although it was born in the Southland, there are now Dixieland bands all over the country and the world, from Belgium to the Balkans."

SPDJ, numbering 500 members, meets at the West Covina Elks Club on the fourth Sunday of each month. Jazz lovers who would like to hear the golden horn of Charlie Coulter are invited.

Do-it-yourself

Painting the easier way

By MR. FIX

Some people find painting easier than others. It's a matter of knowing a few tricks of the trade, of taking a little more care with preparation and saving even more time on the job than the little amount you spent in advance work.

It's a matter of picking your time and even your place.

Paint in the shade. As the sun moves around your house you move too, but in the other direction. The work will be cooler, easier and less tiring.

There's more than comfort involved, however. The sun's heat will draw the oils in the paint to the surface. Paint in the shade and there's less danger of paint failure.

Paint during clear, dry weather. If there has been a heavy rain, wait several days for the siding to become thoroughly dry.

Don't start too soon in the morning if there has been a heavy dew. Give it time to evaporate.

Oil paints need a completely dry surface. Latex paints can be put on over a slighly moist surface but don't press your luck and apply it over too much.

Have enough paint on hand when you start work. Stopping to run out for more paint will throw you back more than you think. Check paint labels for estimate of covering power. Figure about 400 square feet per gallon for the average older house, a little more area than that for a second coat.

Get a gallon of trim paint. Most houses will need that much. Even if you wind up using a little less, it's cheaper than buying trim paint a quart at a time. The extra, if there's any, is good for touchups.

Have everything you need before you start. Besides paint and ladders and brushes, you will need thinners, scrapers sandpaper, drop cloths.

Wear old clothes. Avoid tennis shoes. You'll feel the ladder's rungs right through them.

A drop cloth is very important. It can save you many extra hours that you would have to spend cleaning up. Cover sidewalks, drives, shrubbery.

Have plenty of rags and keep one handy. Wipe up the drop of paint that lands in the wrong place and do it right away. It's easy then.

Keep a putty knife in your pocket. Use it to scrape off loose or blistering paint. If peeling and blistering are extensive do all your scraping and sanding first. This will allow you to paint without major interruptions later.

Use a wire brush for cleaning accumulated dirt.

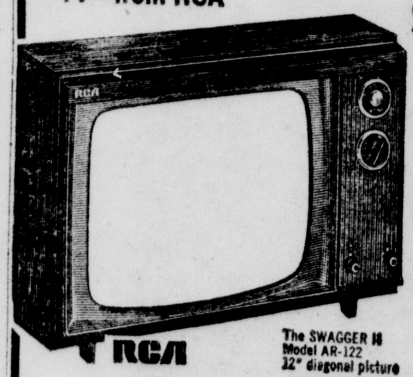

Calk before you paint, or as you paint. But don't calk after. If you do you will have to go back and touch up. By calking first, you can paint right over the calking.

CLIFF KING Says:

Sometimes it's necessary for the ad men to resort to subterfuge in order to convey their message in a way you'll accept. Beer, for example, can be a major problem if you're trying to photograph a glass of it under hot studio lights. The head goes flat in a hurry and the brilliant lights shining through the beer make it look watery and unappetizing.
So, when the commercial involves a look at a glass of beer, you probably see a glass of light-weight motor oil topped with a delicious appearing head of foamy detergent. That's another reason why no one breaks the rule and drinks the beer in the commercial.
There's one rule we NEVER break and that is to back our sales with SERVICE. Our own Service Dept., installs and adjusts every new RCA TV set we sell. On top of it all, we save you money when you buy from us, with our low, competitive prices. It will pay you to get our deal.

Valleyites again turning to good things in life

Tony Van Beek of Pomona Feed and Fuel store shows the baby chicks that Pomona Valley residents are buying to raise in their backyards.

Story by Lenore Wallace
P-B staff writer

It may be a sign that people have a deep-felt urge to return to simpler times and ways that accounts for the recent resurgence and interest in planting gardens and raising backyard flocks of chickens.

Or it may be that prices at the grocery stores are forcing people to raise their own.

For some it is the simple pleasure of working with the soil, placing the seeds, nourishing the plant, watching the slow advance of the green sprouts as they evolve from the earth, and for those with luck and a green thumb — the harvest of the fruits of their labor.

Apparently all it takes to have an abundance of fresh vegetables on the supper table is some hard work and a few dollars for seeds. The rewards for this effort apparently are more than just the money saving factor for many.

Mrs. Mike Hill of Claremont says there is a "God-likeness" when one works with the soil. Her family planted its first garden in April in the backyard of their subdivision home and had such good results from their first attempts that they now have planted a fall garden that should bear fresh vegetables until mid-December.

"The children like running out into the yard and getting vegetables from the garden. They now have respect for food, because they know it takes a while to grow a garden and to care for one."

Mrs. Hill says she had a desire to live in the country and decided, "what the heck, I'll plant a garden."

She said she got the children and her husband involved in the project. A friend gave the family several laying chickens and the family also has fresh eggs daily.

Tony Van Beek of the Pomona Feed and Fuel said he hasn't seen anything like the interest in gardening and backyard flocks of chickens since during World War II, when people planted victory gardens.

Van Beek said there is such an interest in raising chickens in the backyard that he can't keep up with the demand for baby chicks.

Chicks sell for about 45 cents a piece. It costs about $3.50 a month to feed a flock of five chickens. Five laying hens will produce about 2½ dozen eggs a week.

Before rushing out to purchase chickens for your backyard flock, however, it is wise to check on zoning laws in your city. Pomona permits up to 14 chickens in residential areas, but no roosters. Claremont permits three chickens and Montclair permits four. San Dimas permits chickens only in agricultural zones.

However, Planning Director David Celestin of San Dimas did admit that the city only checks on violations on a complaint basis, so it is feasible that there are many backyard flocks of chickens in the San Dimas area in residential zones.

Loa Thomas of the San Dimas Grain Co. also confirmed the booming business in selling baby chicks and in poultry feed and garden seeds.

Van Beek said chicken sales are "beyond what we can supply and 10 times more than any other year." He explained that a chicken has to be about 4½ months old before it starts laying eggs. Only a small area is needed on the ground or in a cage, but both should be kept dry and clean.

Planning Director Charles LeGros of La Verne said La Verne only permits two chickens to be raised in residential areas of the city, but said his city also only checks violations on a complaint basis. LeGros tried his hand at gardening for the first time this year and had great success with his tomatoes, which he says are "huge."

LeGros, who lives in Upland, said he was raised on a ranch in his early years and felt the urge to try to grow something. He planted his garden in a side yard. He said when he saw the results of his efforts when his tomatoes started to produce he felt that the world needs "a little less slab and grass and more room for gardens."

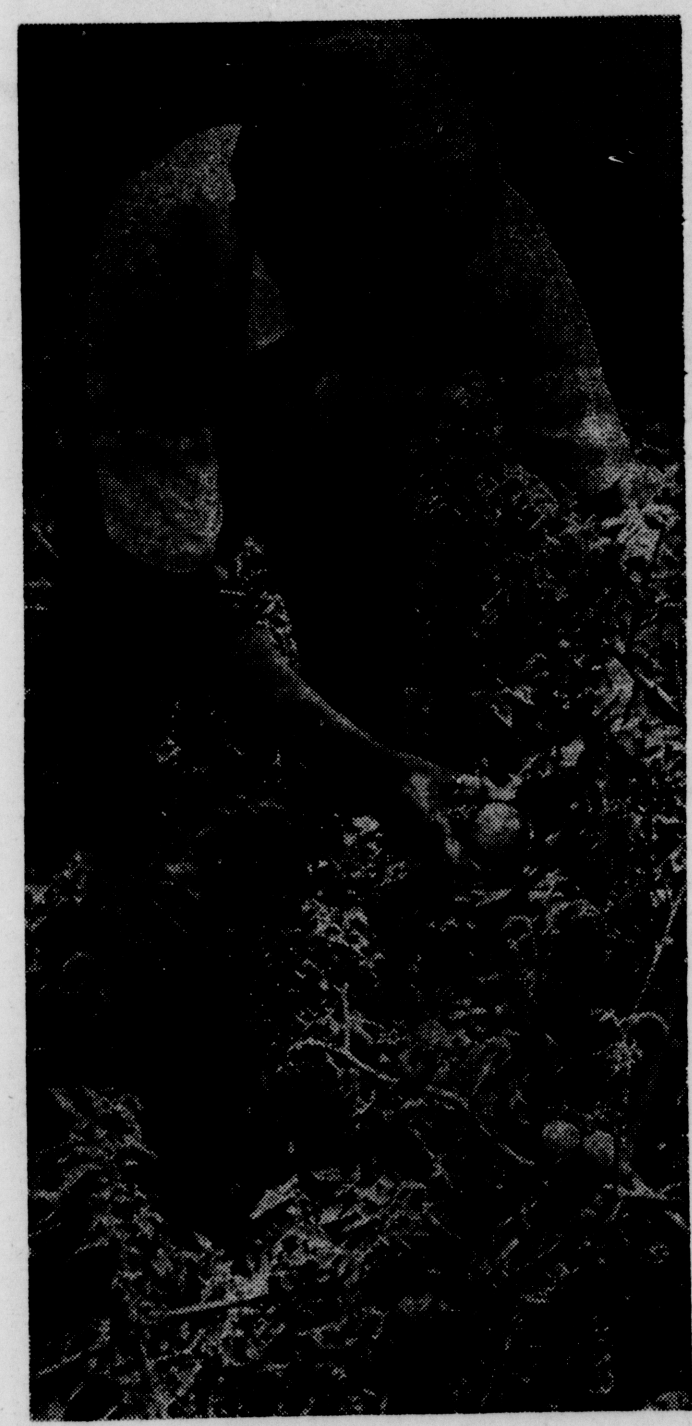

"It's a different thing to walk out into the backyard and grab a tomato off the vine," he said.

Former Pomona Mayor Ben Lawing planted a garden this year and is generous with his abundance of vegetables. Lawing said the garden does help out with the food costs, but he is also enjoying his role as gentleman gardener.

La Verne Planning Commissioner Fred Miller is so pleased with his first attempt at gardening with his tomato crop that he is considering a fall garden.

Hillen's TV wants no problems

By LANGE WINCKLER
P-B Staff Writer

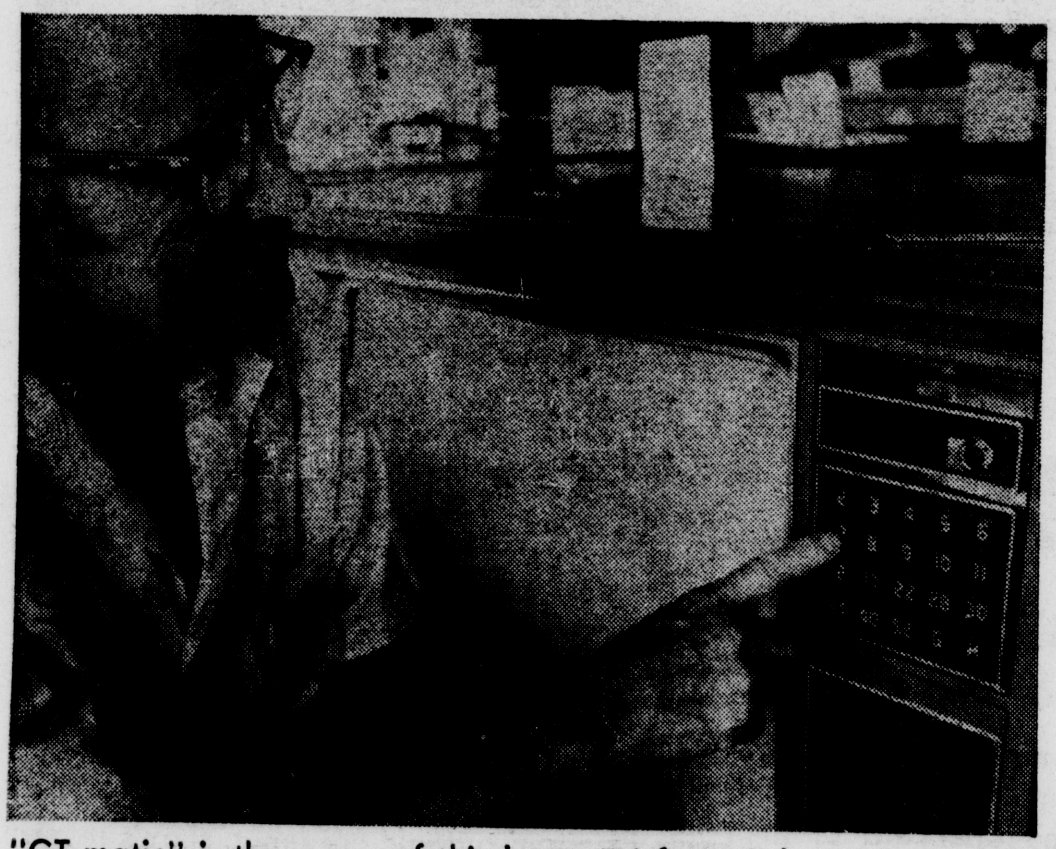

POMONA — At first thought, when a quality television-stereo dealer who specializes in service says he doesn't like the idea of a customer coming back for repair work, the listener is puzzled.

But not for long: To Ken Middleton, owner of Hillen's TV, when the customer takes a unit home and doesn't return with a problem, that means the purchased item is reliable, and the customer satisfied.

"From the standpoint of pleasing me and pleasing my customer, that's most important," says Middleton. As a dealer who backs up every product with full service, he's in a position to know.

Surrounded by RCA televisions, Hillen's salesman Bill Laws points out the unsual appearance of a "Glen Cove" model color unit. RCA televisions are the main line of this carriage trade" company.

"GT-matic" is the name of this latest TV from Sylvania, points out Hillen's owner Ken Middleton. Push a button to pick a channel — while the controls are locked away in the panel beneath the button bank.

Satisfied customers have been dealing with Hillen's for 48 years, since the days the company was owned by Russ Hillen and called "Hillen's Radio." When the business was founded television was only a scientific curiosity still in the laboratory stage—and now that fine television units are the mainstay of Hillen's under Middleton's ownership, he finds himself dealing with the great-grandchildren of customers he first saw years ago.

Over those years the company has grown from the two-man operation of 38 years ago when Middleton was a serviceman-saleman-helper to the owner. He eventually bought out Hillen in 1961, and now has a firm with nine servicemen, a manager, salesman, and office manager. His son, Bob, is service manager.

Product lines have changed, too, from the old Atwater-Kent and Majestic brand radios, the best in their time, to RCA, Zenith, Sylvania, and Sony color televisions—or the same names on high-fidelity stereo and quadraphonic sound systems.

It has been a hallmark of Hillen's to offer only the best product available, notes Middleton. "That's our appeal to the customer," he says. "We offer a quality set backed by good, specialized service."

New for 1974 in his line of the best available are sets in every design and cabinet style. Middleton speaks proudly of the Sony line, which he considers the "most reliable" product in the shop. He also speaks with pleasure about Sylvania's latest televisions, which are so refined the controls are behind a locked panel. The only things showing are computerized push-button channel selectors.

"But let's face it—RCA is our main line, our bread and butter." When he strolls over to RCA sets, "bread and butter" becomes too humble a phrase. On the showroom floor are gleaming modern-styled sets offering almost any combination of design features.

Another new product that shows how far Hillen's has come since the earliest days of radio are microwave ovens from Litton Industries. While there are any number of the cool-cooking units on the market, Middleton points out, only the Litton oven provides a 'browning" feature that gives foods the appealing appearance and flavor of foods cooked in conventional ovens.

With full service from customized antenna installations through pick-up and delivery of units, a Hillen's customer need only go to the shop and make a purchase. There are three rooms full of televisions and other products, and a separate "sound room" for comparing stereo or quadraphonic units.

Hillen's offers its customers parking at the rear of the store at 740 N. Garey Ave. Hours are from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. Fridays, and 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. daily except Sundays.

Armour treats 'Lit' with wit

By PHIL ROCHE
P-B Staff Writer

IT ALL STARTED WITH FRESHMAN ENGLISH by Richard Armour, McGraw-Hill, $5.95.

Remember Freshman English? That bone-racking, brow beating, broken record, brain bruising course demanded of all college freshman. With this nostalgia kick going on around us, it's time to recall the authors and their works "who made that course so successful."

Along comes Richard Armour parading to the podium, once again. Armour is a ham (a student wrote), an egghead a bit cracked, a professor with a twinkle and, for better or worse, a verse, for every author.

But he makes the authors stand up and tell jokes about themselves. He paraphrases their poetry. Examples:

Coleridge "Water, water everywhere; the plumbing badly needs repair."

Longfellow — "One if by land, two if by sea . . . Now what do I do? He signals three!"

T. S. Eliot — "We are the hollow men. It's time to eat again."

The book takes the reader through Armour's early days and his early days of teaching. He was a serious, frightened young man. He lost his fright, but despite his parodies galore, he retained respect for authors. He wrote: "I'd rather far have written trees, Than all its thousand parodies." I liked that.

I confess that as a high school English teacher, I have reached for Armour's earlier books, "American Lit Relit" and "English Lit Relit." During the dog days of December when depression, despair and despondency took over, it was fun to tell students: "The Age of Johnson was greater than the Age of Pope, Johnson living to 75 and Pope to 56.'

They smirked a bit and sometimes only chuckled, but they knew I was trying. Armour doesn't know how refreshing and important his books have been to English teachers.

This new book, then, is the ham reheated. Some new, a good deal old. Much has appeared before, but there's enough freshness here to make Armour friends happy again.

After all where could you find out that All New England books were prim, but the New England Primer was primmer.

That in addition to his plays Shakespeare wrote CLIV sonnets.

That teaching English, in fact teaching anything, is better than working.

Thus:

Readers of lit are often sour,
They seldom are ignited;
But Armour seems to have the power,
To make them feel delighted.

Rowing couple barely survive Pacific ordeal

By WILLISTON WIRT

OARS ACROSS THE PACIFIC by John Fairfax and Sylvia Cook, W. W. Norton Co., New York $6.95

Having rowed Brittania I across the Atlantic single-handed, John Fairfax laid plans to tackle the Pacific Ocean in Brittania II. An ardent fan was 30-year-old Sylvia Cook who convinced him she should accompany him. Lacking capital, they induced several English and American firms to provide equipment and supplies, gratis, in exchange for publicity.

(Williston Wirt is a staff member of the Pomona Public Library.)

Uffa Fox, an architect, designed a self-bailing non-sinkable boat, and a shipbuilder did the construction. About 30 feet long, with two small covered sections at each end, it provided scant protection from the elements. Fairfax and Cook intended to defy wind, rain and mountainous waves with sheer bravado and grit.

In this book they provide a running account of the voyage. Fairfax gives his version, derived from his dairy and Cook gives hers. They alternate, often covering the same events from different angles.

Their toilet was the ocean (a bit embarrassing when in port) It was not, to say the least, any fun. Disaster was a constant threat. Twice they were extricated from near wreckage by residents of tiny island setlements. Sheer fatigue led to frayed tempers and self recrimination.

Wrote Cook: "I hate this more than I have hated anything. What sort of a fool am I? J and I get on each other's nerves. He drives me mad. When not a tired, hot, sore bore, then I am a tired, wet, sore bore."

To queries about sex, they pointed to their blistered lips, exhausted bodies and boils and sores due to spoiled food

BOOK REVIEWS

Book points out ways to good memory

By SUSAN MACKALL

STOP FORGETTING, by Fruno Furst, Doubleday and Co., $7.95.

Would you like to improve your ability to retain what you read in newspapers, magazines, and books? Or be able to remember the names and faces of the people you meet? Be able to recall immediately and accurately those facts and dates for business and personal appointments?

Would you just like to learn how to remember more effectively? Whatever your goal may be, Dr. Furst has a memory system that may work for you.

Furst is the founder and director of the School of Memory and Concentration in New York City. He devoted over 30 years of research to determine how memory works and how it can be trained, before he wrote an earlier book on memory training in 1948. It became so popular and so successful that two of his assistants, Mr. and Mrs. Gerrit Storm have revised and included the latest developments in this recent edition.

The first part of the book is an introduction, and a series of exercises to help improve observation, concentration, and imagination. The second half is devoted entirely to specific methods of memory training. One I found interesting is the Hook method, or how to remember anything connected with numbers. You associate the numbers with letters or a series of pictures.

This is not a lightly written book. It is a serious, detailed guide for the individual who is very serious about improving his memory and who is willing to devote much time and effort to study the techniques presented.

Just reading this book will not improve your memory. It will only help you decide which techniques will help you the most. Then you will have to go back and begin serious training.

If you have the will and the stamina, Dr. Furst's techniques will certainly help you sharpen your memory and concentration.

Professors write readable history of Golden State

By ROBERT E. MORSBERGER

CALIFORNIA, A HISTORY OF THE GOLDEN STATE, by Warren A. Beck and David A. Williams Doubleday, $11.95.

It is a paradox that California is reputed to be one of the least historically conscious of states, with little concern for its monuments and its past, when it has one of the most dramatic and colorful of histories.

Beck, who previously wrote a history of New Mexico, and Williams have made the most of their material.

(Robert E. Morsberger is professor of English at Cal Poly University, Pomona.)

Here is the epic of the early seafarers, the heroic explorations of the Jesuit missionaries, the incredible exploits of the "reckless breed" of mountain men, the grim tragedy of the Donner party, the adventures of Fremont and Kit Carson, American conquest, Sutter's gold and Comstock lode silver, the lynch-law justice of the vigilantes, the Pony Express, the building of the Union Pacific, and the Indian wars.

This is the stuff of adventure fiction.

But as American literature evolved from romanticism into realism and naturalism, so the California scene changed from swashbuckling to industrialism, graft, and political corruption.

The depression of the 1870s, the exploitation of Chinese labor, and land and railroad monopolies set the tone for what Lewis Mumford calls the Brown Decades.

The railraod octopus and the corrupt political machine of Abe Ruef led to progressive reforms. But here, too, California has a paradoxical history.

On the one hand, it provided some of the best wages and working conditions in the nation; on the other, it was reactionary and repressive, exploiting minorities and fighting organized labor with police-state tactics and vigilante violence.

Professors Beck and Williams are not muckrakers; they handle their material with scholarly objectivity. Basically liberal in approach, they chronicle both the industrial and agricultural achievement of the state and the cost it sometimses exacted in suffering, poverty, and oppression.

On the one hand, they record California's immense agricultural productivity; on the other, the problems of migratory farm labor.

During World War II, California became the arsenal of democracy, but it also interned its loyal citizens of Japanese ancestry and confiscated their property. It built the world's greatest sytem of higher education, only to have it frustrated by Ronald Reagan, to whom the authors give particularly bad grades.

In terms of development, California's record is equally paradoxical. Perhaps its disregard for history is the result of such rapid change as to produce a bad case of future shock.

For centuries, Spain considered Alta California barren and worthless and made no serious effort to colonize it; the richest of all the states was land that nobody wanted.

It was still a sleepy land of ranchos and Mission Indians, sparsely populated, when the U.S. took over in 1848. Since then, the rate of growth and change has been unprecedented.

The once rejected territory was hailed as a garden of Eden, but its very attractions were the serpent in the garden; for population growth, urban sprawl, and industrial blight have greatly damaged Southern California and the Bay Area and threaten the rest of the state.

The authors end on a somber note, with anxiety over the future and uncertainty as to whether California will remain the Golden State or become an environmental nightmare.

The authors' scholarship is impressively thorough. Though the legislature keeps stating that state university and college faculty are not expected to publish, it should be noted that Dr. Beck and Dr. Williams are professors at Fullerton and Long Beach respectively.

Writing in a clear, fast-moving style free from academemese, they have produced a very readable book both for scholars and the general public. It is admirably organized, with maps and illustrations.

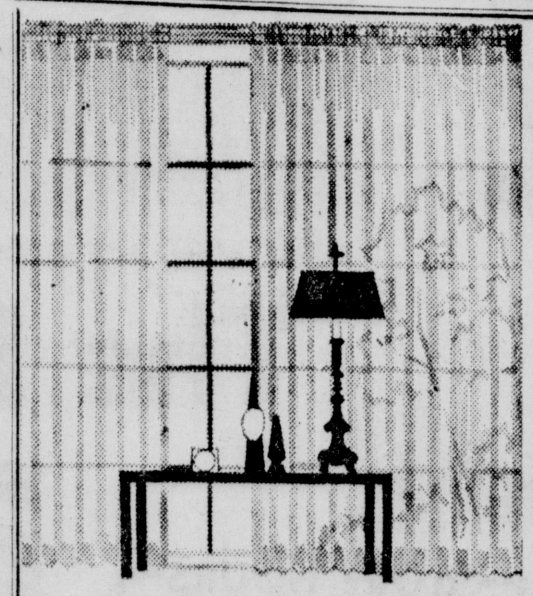

For anyone interested in California, past or present, this is the book to have.

Book aids your travel bookkeeping

Moving your belongings may be the largest single expense you encounter when you relocate. But getting yourself and your family to your new home can also add up to a pretty substantial amount of money.

Burnham Van Service, nation-wide movers, offers a free booklet to serve just that purpose. On each page of the booklet are entries for lodging costs, meals, phone calls, and other expenses.

For a copy by mail, send for "Trip Expense Record" booklet, Dept. RR, Burnham Van Service, P. O. Box 1125, Columbus, Ga. 31902.

Advice to First Graders from the Experts

"Be sure you know how to tie your shoes."

What advice would you give first graders who are just starting school? This was the question The Mini Page asked older boys and girls. One fifth grade student wrote, "Remember, we were all first graders, too. We've been through it." So here is some advice from the "experts." If you have any first graders at your house, will you please read this to them? Thanks.

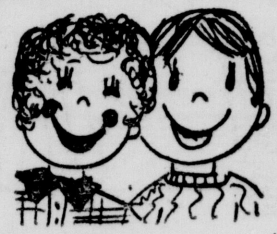

"The main thing is to do your best and try."

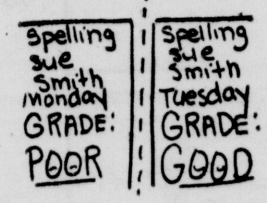

"At least try the school lunches. I think they are very good."

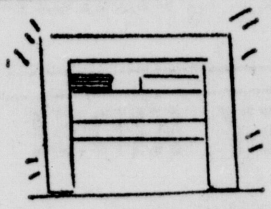

"Stay in your seat when your teacher is out of the room."

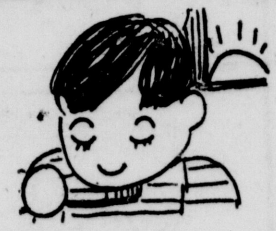

"Be nice to everybody."

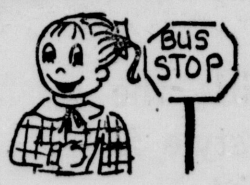

"If you don't do well today, try again tomorrow."

"Have a clean desk when you leave in the afternoon."

"Brush your teeth and your hair."

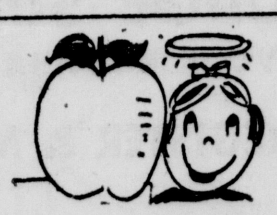

"Get to the bus stop on time."

"Learn your address."

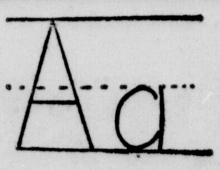

"When you have music, sing."

"Be nice to your teacher."

"Never yell in the room."

"Write neatly so you won't have to do it over."

"Learn to listen."

"Learn your teacher's name."

"Don't bug your teacher too much."

"Get to bed early."

What's New in Back-to-School Clothes?

The styles you wore last year are still good, but it's always fun to know what is the latest in fashion. The look this year is the classic look. The new outfits are more coordinated.

New Colors: The newest colors this year are berry red and hunter green. Plaids are also big.

Jackets: The short battle jacket is good for boys and girls. So are jackets with elasticized waists. Girls will be wearing jackets with the tunnel waist, too.

Girls clothes: Pants are still in style, but dresses are the news. You will be seeing more of them. They are the classic, shirt style with tunnel and elasticized waists. Skirts are popular this year, too. The jumper is back.

Boys clothes: Turtle neck shirts are good this year, too. The wool vest or shrink is still popular.

Pants: For both boys and girls, the cuffed, slightly flaired pant style is news. Pants fit around the waist. You won't be seeing as many hip-huggers.

Shoes are chunky.

Prices are higher than ever!

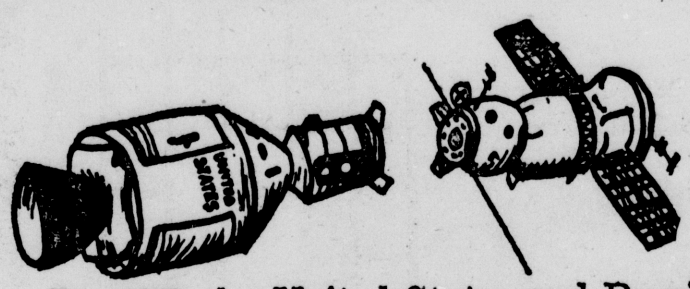

Super Sport: Tom Weiskopf

Tom Weiskopf is one of the top golfers on the professional tour. The 30-year old Ohio native has won several tournaments this year, including the Kemper Open, the Colonial Classic and the Philadelphia Gold Classic and the British Open.

Weiskopf attended Ohio State University before turning pro. He is one of golf's longest hitters. When he isn't busy playing golf, the friendly Weiskopf likes to hunt bobcats, bears, elk, and other big game. Tom is married to Jeanne Ruth, a former Miss Minnesota. They have one child, Heidi.

United States and Russia Plan to Join Spacecraft

In 1975, the United States and Russia plan to join two vehicles in space. The spacecraft to be joined will be the Soviet Soyuz (Sah-youz) and the American Command/Service Module. The Soyuz will be launched first. About seven hours later the American Command/Service Module will be launched. There are many problems in such a shot. Spaceships will have to be specially built so they will fit together. The astronauts will have to learn each other's language. It is hoped that this meeting will lead to future joint space missions.

A Mini Do: T.M. Make a Telephone

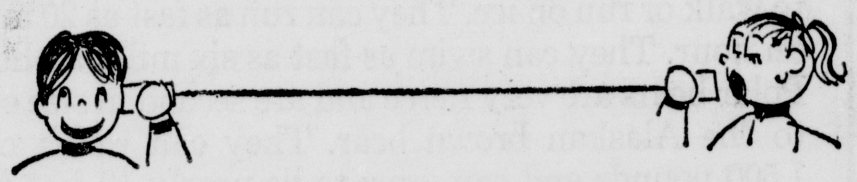

What You'll need:

- Two tin cans
- String

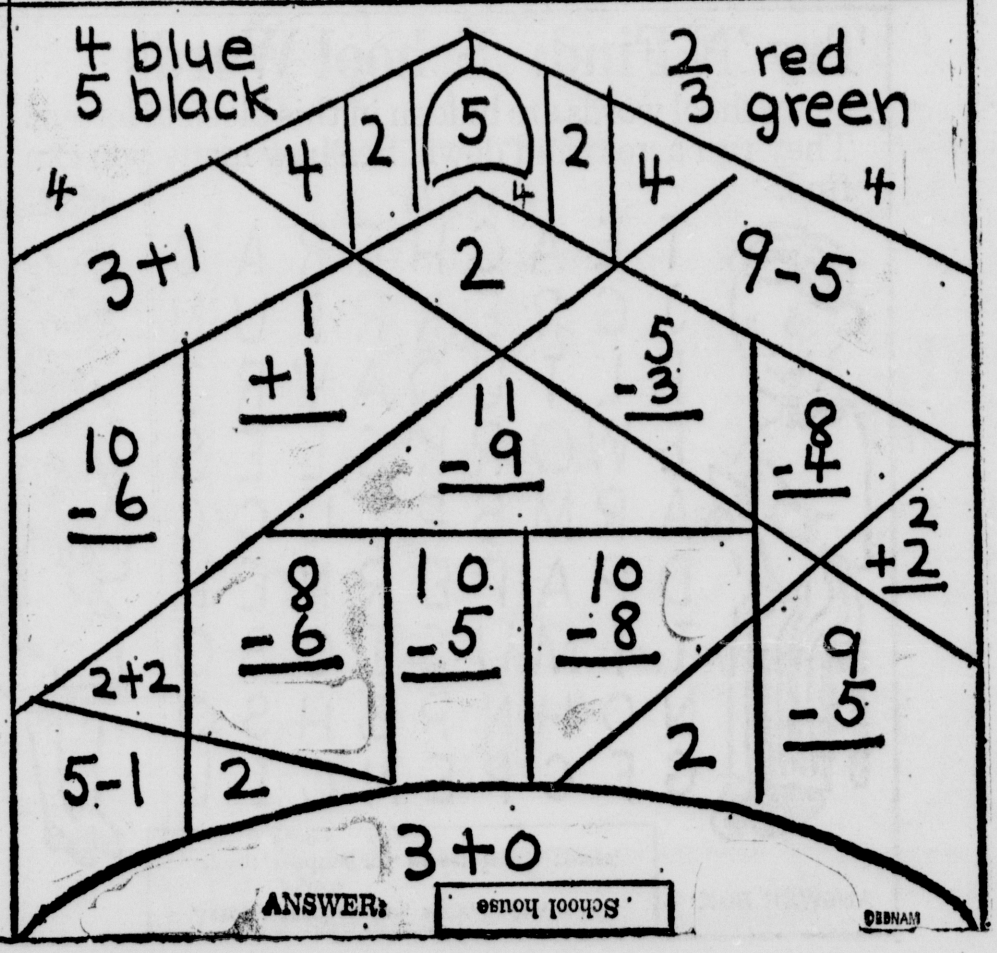

What to do:

1. Punch small holes in the bottom of each can. Pull one end of a 30-foot string through each hole and tie a knot at the end. Stretch the string so it does not sag.
2. Talk into the can. Have a friend listen at the other end. Can you hear a clear message?

This proves that sound waves can be carried through solids (the string) as well as through the air.

The polar bear has a white fur with a yellowish color to it.

Animal of the Week: The Polar Bear

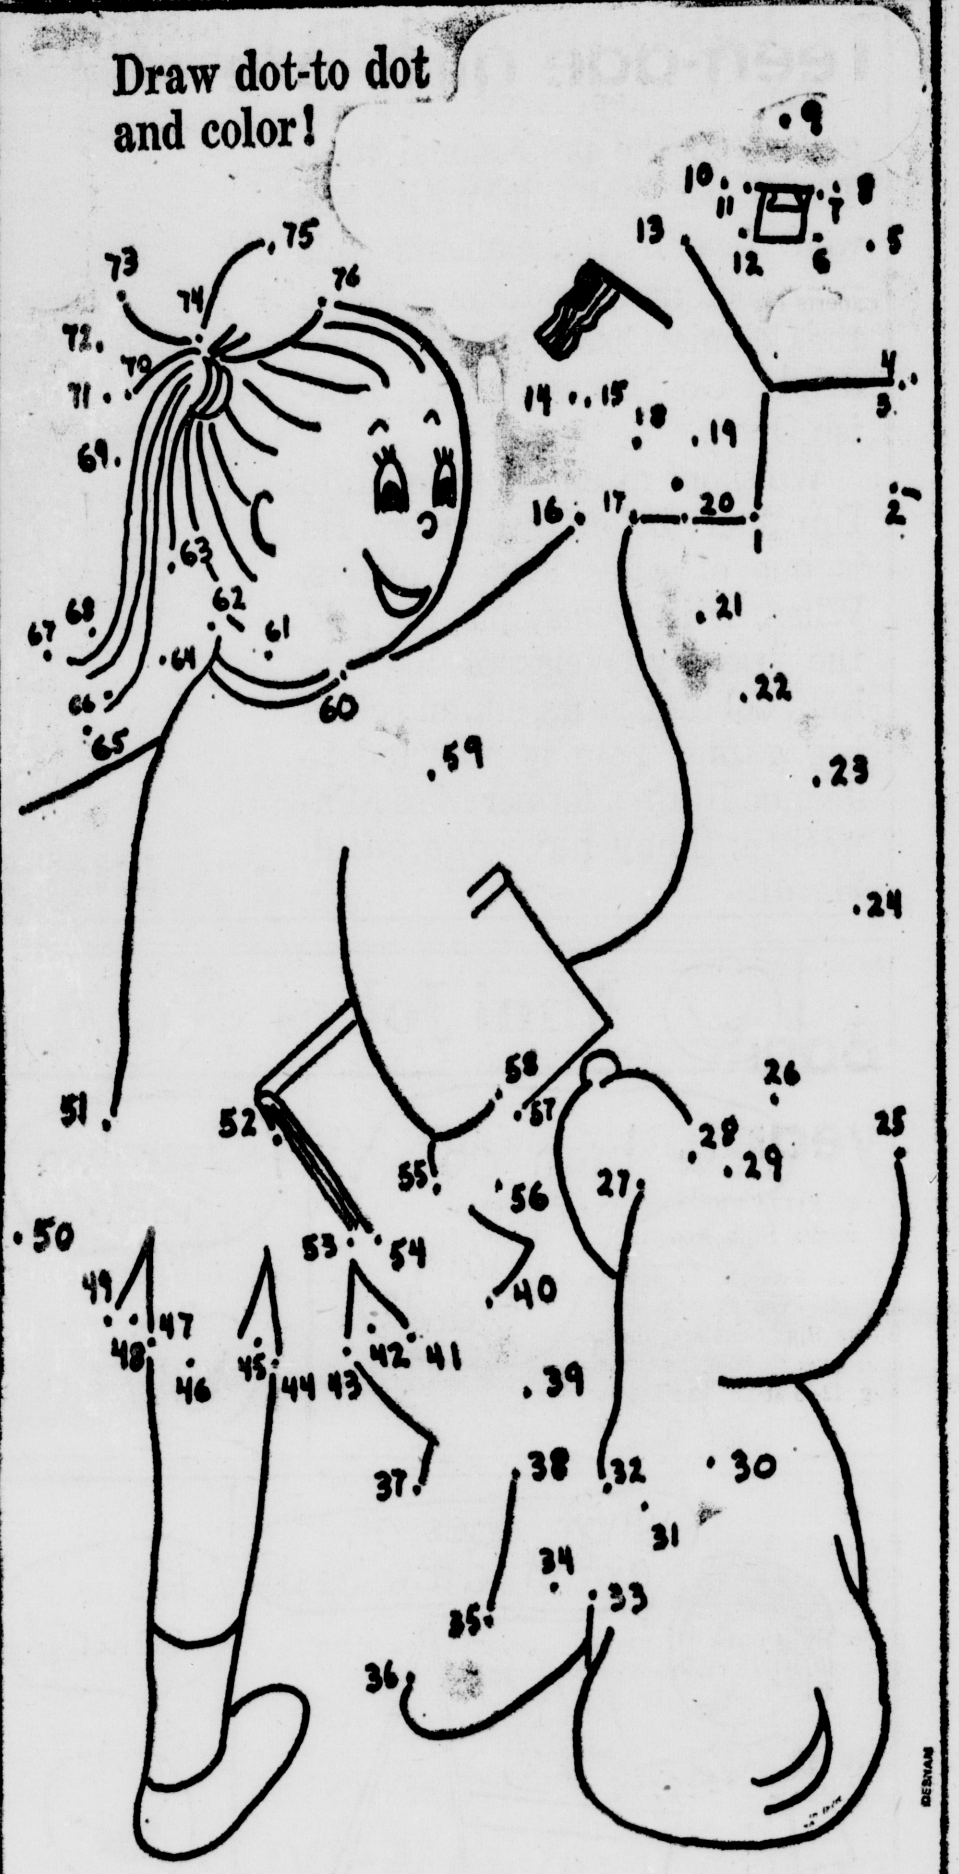

The polar bear is on the endangered species list. This means that there are very few of them left. They could become extinct unless protected. Man has hunted them for food and clothing. Their bones have been used to make knives and other utensils.

Polar bears live on ice chunks in the freezing waters of the Arctic Ocean. Some go ashore on the mainland of Alaska, Canada, Siberia or Greenland. Others go ashore on islands in the Arctic and never come to the mainland at all.

The fur on the bottom of their feet enables them to walk or run on ice. They can run as fast as 20 miles an hour. They can swim as fast as six miles an hour. Polar bears are very fierce and are second in size only to the Alaskan brown bear. They can weigh over 1,500 pounds and can grow to be nearly 10 feet tall. They are excellent hunters that eat fish, seals and walruses.

A Real Life Scene

Teen Scope

Teen-age girls are prone to cavities

Experts say it's because girls eat the wrong foods, eat too frequently and are too busy to brush their teeth, reports the September Seventeen.

Tooth decay is the most common disease among teen-age girls, and the most preventable.

Dr. Basil C. Bibby of the Eastmen Dental Center in Rochester, N.Y., says: "Even a pound of sugar eaten at one meal damages the teeth less than a few ounces eaten between meals throughout the day."

Sucking or sticky candies and soft sweet foods such as doughnuts are the worst. Soda is not quite so bad.

Dr. Bibby suggests sipping soda through a straw to send the sugar straight to the back of your mouth.

Brushing your teeth once a day, preferably at bedtime, is what dentists now recommend to be more realistic.

Heredity does play a role in tooth decay. If your family is prone to cavities you can benefit from fluoride applied directly to the teeth, even if you drink fluoridated water.

If your dentist paints on a fluoride solution every time he cleans your teeth, and you keep it up until your early 20s, you can expect about one-third reduction in tooth decay.

CRAIG B. STORY

SANDRA MARIE LEE

Two 1973 grads put in Who's Who

Two 1973 high school graduates who have been notified they will be listed in the 1972-73 edition of Who's Who Among American High School Students are Sandra Marie Lee and Craig B. Story.

Miss Lee, a graduate of Pomona Catholic High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Lee Jr., 2418 Alder St., Pomona.

Story, a graduate of Ganesha High School in Pomona, is the son of Mrs. Mary E. Story of 1433 Ashport St., Pomona.

Miss Lee plans to attend Loyola-Marymount University and major in communications arts. At high school she was a member of the Girls' Athletic Association, the Usherettes, was editor-in-chief of the school newspaper, served as her school's correspondent to the Progress-Bulletin and was treasurer of the National Honor Society combined with the California Scholarship Federation.

She sang in the Glee Club and was a member of the California Scholastic Press Association.

Story, who plans to study dentistry at Loma Linda University, was a member of the Ganesha Interact Club, played varsity soccer and varsity tennis, belonged to the Lettermen and Coronets (school honor society) and the Optimist Club.

Both of the students received California State Scholarships.

In addition to having their biographies included in Who's Who they are eligible to compete for $1,000 scholarships awarded by publishers of the book.

Developing styles

Hathaway extension

By E. J. JONES
Music Reviewer

Donny Hathaway. Extension of a Man. SD 7029 Atco Records. Division of Atlantic Recording Corp.

Donny Hathaway on the album jacket explains he decided to call this album "Extension of a man because I (Hathaway) am in the process of expanding and developing styles. I love music, period. So consequently, I would like to record as many styles as humanly possible for one person."

Hathaway has certainly come up with a different album, different not only from previous music, but truly an extension of a man, and a display of the talent he has for differing music styles.

Side one features a Hathaway composition called "I Love the Lord." It's different from any composition I have heard from this artist. A beautiful composition. Classical in style, but with the right kind of beat.

Done with a full orchestra and divided into two sections with Hathaway doing a solo and restating the meoldy in part two. Very expressive. "Someday We'll All Be Free" is a sequel to the above. It is done in Hathaway stye and is an easy listening cut.

Other notable songs on the album include "Flying Easy", "Magdalena" and "Love, Love, Love." Most of the compositions on the album were written by Hathaway, but he does several by other composers.

If you want to hear the "Extension Of A Man" and realize the versatility of The Man, you'll want to possess and listen to Donny Hathaway's "Extension Of A Man."

Bonita editor at UC yearbook workshop

By KITTY GOODALL
Bonita High Reporter

Mark Western, 1973-74 editor of Echoes, represented Bonita High School at the annual year book workshop Aug. 12-19 at UC San Diego.

Some 212 yearbook representatives from as far away as Phoenix, Ariz., and Sacramento attended. San Dimas High School sent three students.

Conference instructors were professors from colleges and universities. Several judges of yearbook contests also were present.

Students and their faculty advisors resided on campus. A hypnotist entertained. Student groups visited Sea World, San Diego Zoo and Globe Theater where "Merchant of Venice" was performed. Others spent time at the beach.

Keynote of the workshop was "motivation." Students learned traditional yearbook techniques and styles and gathered new ideas for their publications.

Water really is important

As of 1970, the United States was withdrawing a total of 370 billion gallons of water a day from surface and ground water sources to meet the needs of Americans. This amounts to an average of about 1,800 gallons per day per person.

D.B. teen center is praised, given $500

Diamond Bar Development Corp. has contributed $500 to the Pomona Valley YMCA in support of the Diamond Bar-Walnut YMCA teen program.

Headquarters for the program is the Teen Center at the Diamond Bar Congregational Church at 2249 Morning Canyon Road., Diamond Bar.

The teen program has proved a great asset to local youths, said Robert Hunt, vice president of Diamond Bar Development Corp. and general manager of Diamond Bar.

"We are especially enthused that this year's program has the additional leadership and direction of the YMCA and are confident the program will continue to be effective in providing Diamond Bar teens with beneficial activities and programs," said Hunt.

Teen Center facilities include a juke box, ping pong tables, a volleyball court and a conversation and relaxation area.

Dances for high school youths are held each Friday night. Interpretive dancing is taught each Tuesday and Thursday night.

The Teen Center is open daily from 2 to 5 and 7 to 10 p.m. For information call Larry Woods at 595-7485.

3 attend UR music clinic

A Pomona oboe player, an Ontario organist and a La Puente alto sax player were among 120 student musicians who attended the 15th annual Summer Music Clinic at the University of Redlands during August.

They are Kemen Hirayama of 1955 Arthur Ave., Pomona, who attends Ganesha High School; Jerry Ripley of 726 E. G St., Ontario, a Chaffey High School student, and Chris Robert Workman of 733 Del Valle Ave., La Puente, who is enrolled at Workman High School.

The two-week music seminar drew students from throughout Southern California. Among visiting conductors were Denis deCoteau of Cal State Hayward and Sir Vivian Dunn, visiting from Britain.

Dailies facing cutdown over paper shortage

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI) —An official of Charleston's daily newspapers says if the newsprint shortage does not ease within the next week or two, the papers may have to ration advertising and drastically reduce their size.

Robert L. Smith Jr., vice president and general manager of Charleston Newspapers, said Tuesday the firm has about 23 days of newsprint supply on hand.

Affected by the shortage were The Charleston Gazette, the Charleston Daily Mail, and the Sunday Gazette-Mail. The shortage results from Canadian paper mill and railroad strikes.

"We're watching closely to see if the railway employes return to their jobs," Smith said. "If something isn't resolved in the next week or two, we conceivably might have to ration advertising

Dear Walt: I want to know how to tell my friend not to talk dirty when I think my sister or mother might have picked up the extension phone. He is a very good friend except for this. —Rockland

Dear Rockland: As soon as your friend announces himself, greet him and suggest he say "Hi" to anyone who happens to be on the extension phone. You can cushion this by adding, "We usually all race to pick up the phone and see who's calling."

If you're suspicious of eavesdroppers and there are no sign-off clicks after that point, invent an excuse to hang up and call him right back yourself.

If you decide to push him to launder his language, don't make it a "You're a sinner for swearing" trip. Instead point out how repetition makes his four-letter favorites grind on your ear as boringly as a drowsy lecturer's "and's," "er's" and "uh's."

You might then want to make him aware of the frequency of his profanity by clicking your tongue loudly or giving a shrill whistle every time he hits that old four-letter refrain. —Walt.

Dear Ele and Walt: What are good manners when you run into someone you should know really well but you can't think of the person's name, and you have someone with you who should be introduced? I'm sure I'm not the only one with this problem. — Dwight

Dear Dwight: You're not alone in this quandary. We share it too. Sometimes we have the savoir-faire necessary to just say "I suddenly have an attack of anmesia and can't remember one of your names. Could you introduce yourslves while I quietly hit my head against the wall for being such a sieve."

Other times we try to fake it out, hoping to beat a quick retreat. We're seldom successful. Usually the conversation drags on and on as the two wait to be intruduced.

Good chums don't prolong our agony in such a spot. Instead they stick out their hands and introduce themselves without prompting. "Hi," I'm Stan. I don't think we've met."

Our cover is then easy, a snap of the fingers, and "my gosh I should have introduced you two." Bless such friends. — Ele and Walt

Dear Walt: I was driving my friend's car and a dog ran out and I swerved to miss it and ran into a tree. I was driving because he was too drunk to drive himself and we had to get home that night. He thinks I should pay the $100 the insurance won't pay for the car repair. Do you think he is right or wrong? If I hadn't swerved that dog would have been killed. — Randy

Dear Randy: I'm torn. It's pretty clear that you saved the day by driving. If he'd been at the wheel, you might all have been killed. Yet there is no disputing the fact that it was your decision that resulted in the actual smashup.

All things weighed, might you each cover half of the $100 the insurance won't pay? Personally I think it's worth $50 not to let a valued friendship disintegrate. — Walt

It Happened in Pomona

By Doc Peirsol

Ecology is nothing new

It all began a long time ago.

In the very early days of the 20th Century we already had ecologists, conservationists and endangered species crusaders right here in Pomona. Among them was none other than the editor of the Pomona Daily Review who in July of 1904, was viewing with alarm and vigorously bemoaning some of the thoughtless acts of Southern California's sportsmen. In one of his more critical articles he denounced their nefarious acts in no uncertain terms.

"Last Sunday," he wrote, "over 700 pounds of albacore were caught at Catalina and left to rot on the beach."

Also, so far as that 1904 editor was concerned, the horse was about to become a member of the endangered species. On that subject he had this to say:

"Animal lovers would do well to crusade for the abolishment of blinders and overdrawn check reins on horses."

But although he was basically inclined to take a rather pessimistic view on what the future held in store for life on this earth, that editor, true to his journalistic responsibilities, was also careful to keep his readers informed on all matters which might indicate that after all there might be some hope for the future. One of his more optimistic and hopeful announcements in that regard was a carefully documented story which stated that it had been definitely proven that radium would cure corns.

Valleyites turning to good things of bell peppers, tomatos, and strawberries this year. They also can boast of five fruit trees — fig, peach, plum, apricot and loquat.

Mrs. Wilson admits that she and her husband, Harold have their garden for enjoyment. It's really a thing with both of us because we like to see things grow. And the fresh fruit and vegetables taste better."

Ron Whaley, administrative aide for the City of Pomona, said the planning department receives many calls from residents wanting to know how many chickens and rabbits they can keep in the backyard.

Whaley, who says he lives in an older home in Claremont with a large lot, planted a fall garden two weeks ago. "We wanted to have fresh vegetables and also it will give the three children something to do."

He said it isn't an organic garden, but just the traditional, ordinary vegetable garden.

There is a lot of interest in organic gardening, according to Howard Price, public information assistant at the Pomona Public Library. Price said librarians report a growing interest in home gardens and organic foods.

"Books on these subjects are difficult to keep on the shelves."

The library recently sponsored a talk by Ray Hutton, a former nurseryman who is involved in organic gardening, and the response to the meeting was so great that another was scheduled which resulted in the formation of the Pomona Valley Garden Club.

Hutton has also been hired by the city Parks and Recreation Department to present a gardening class this fall at the Ganesha Park Community Center. The class will begin Oct. 4 and will be conducted on Thursdays at 7:30 p.m.

Hutton says it takes a little more time to deal with a garden, but says "there is no better way to transmit love to your family."

Only a space as big as a bedroom is needed to plant a garden that will provide enough vegetables for an average family, according to Hutton, who gives advice on ways to plant gardens that will repell insects without the need for commercial poisons.

Hutton has some tips for first time gardeners. Tomatos need full sun and little watering. Vegetables shouldn't be planted in neat rows, but should instead be planted interspersed with flowers and herbs. This confuses insects and also makes for a very colorful garden.

Dennis Vinopal, agricultural inspector for the Pomona Valley area, gives the advice that a garden "needs a lot of care, watering and weeding." He said there is a local problem with the smog that is very harmful to leafy vegetables. He receives calls from residents who have particular problems with their gardens that nurserymen are unable to solve.

Additional farm advice may be obtained from the Farm and Home Advisors, 500 W. Temple Ave., Hall of Administration, Los Angeles.

What then drove them to such extremes, a life of constant hazard stretching just short of a full year?

It was a contest against fate. If successful they would acquire a certain fame and a chance to bask in the spotlight breifly.

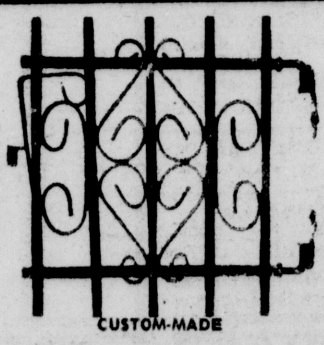

Yet that chance often seemed beyond their grasp, especially when a shark bit a chunk out of Fairfax's upper arm rendering him a prostrate patient while his female counterpart took over complete charge of their destiny. This makes for a harrowing climax to the book, and makes her share of the adventure doubly meritorious.

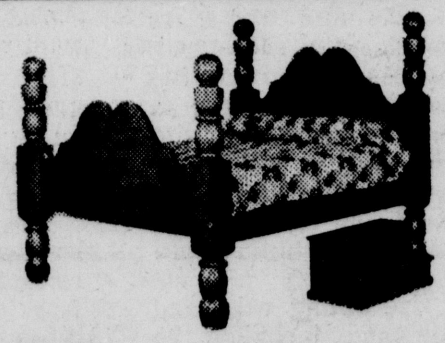

In an epilog Fairfax writes "To the great surprise of all, we are still speaking to each other. Indeed, we have a hardened respect for each other. In spite of this we plan to part company."

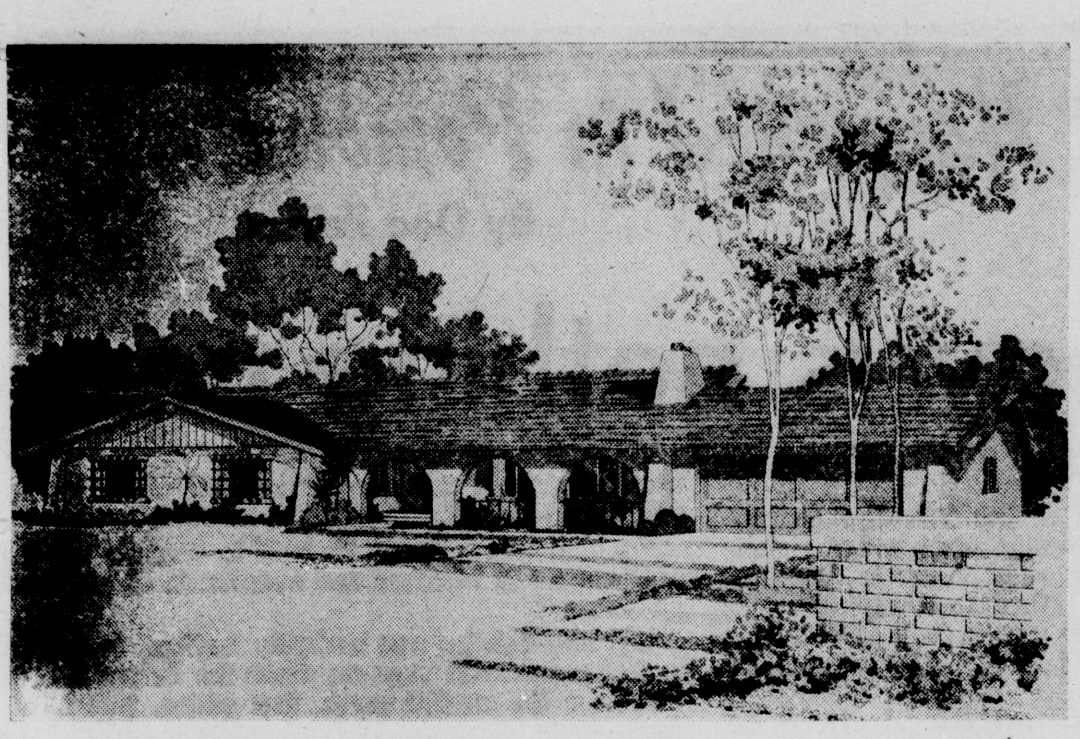

He has plans for more ocean voyages, though less hazardous. "Sylvia has had her fill of the sea. Her plans are uncertain at present, but she swears she will never go to sea in anything but an ocean liner in the future."

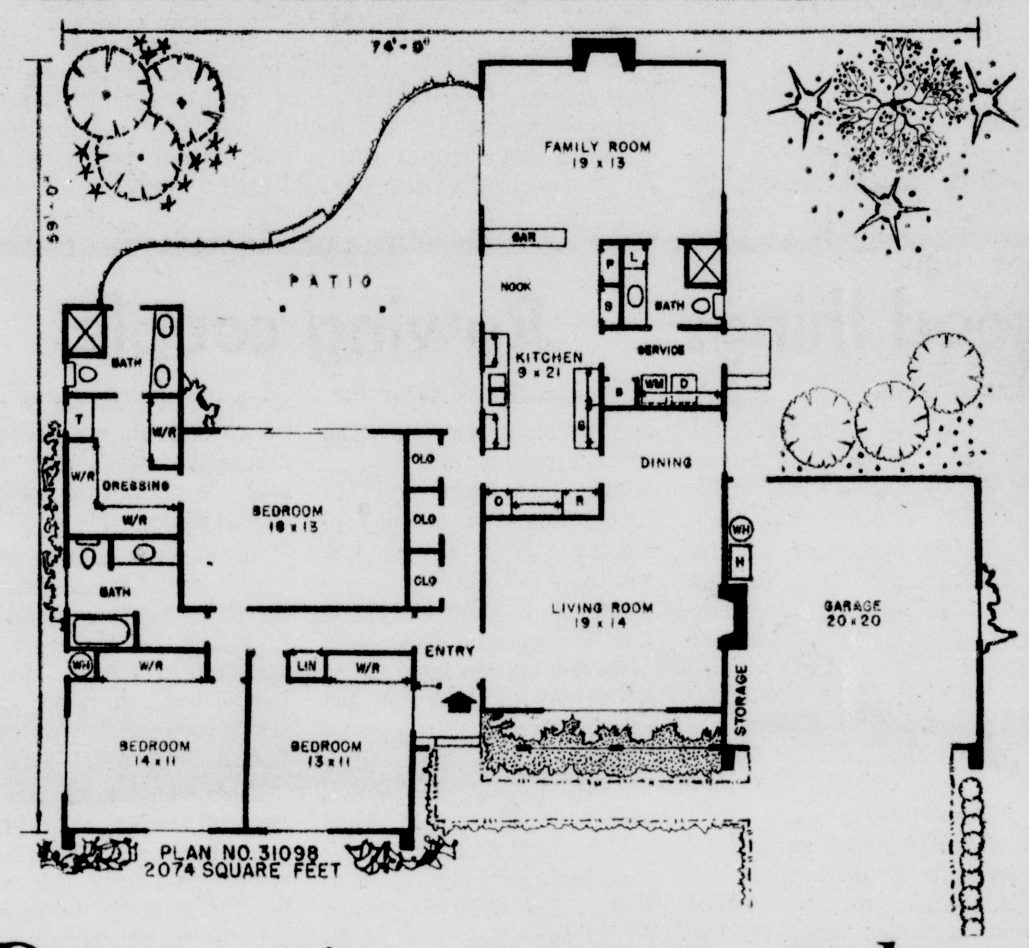

Those who dote on true adventure stories will greatly enjoy this book. Every page relates an unexpected event, usually involving anguish of some sorth. Yet there is great resoucefulness, courage and determination to succeed in spite of enormous difficulty. Too bad all that tremendous spirit could not have been channeled to a project more beneficial to mankind.

Give some thought to ventilating fan

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — If your guests can tell you had onions for dinner, or that your husband's smoking cigars again; if there are times you just have to throw open all the windows, no matter that it's dead of winter, or that the air conditioner is laboring to keep out a heatwave — give some thought to ventilating fans.

Chosen and installed properly, in rooms where there is an odor or moisture problem, or where heat builds up, ventilating fans can keep air circulating and keep it sweet and fresh.

Charles Kenney, who concerns himself with residential ventialting products at Scovill Manufacturing Company's NuTone Division in Cincinnati, suggests ventialting fans for:

—Kitchens, laundries, bathrooms, where heat and airborne ordors, grease, smoke, as well as moisture, are a problem.

—Basements, which may be underground with poor natural ventilation and the likelihood of dampness.

—Attics, where air often is stagnant and summer temperatures soar.

—Rooms, such as family rooms, where people congregate for parties and smoke and heat may be a problem.

—Workshops and hobby rooms, garages, where air may contain pollutants that not only are unpleasant but may be dangerous as well, such as certain sprays, fumes from paints, solvents and adhesives, and carbon monoxide.

Kenney says there are two basic types of ventilating fans. One is mounted inside the room on the wall or in the ceiling, and can be included in combination with a light or with a light and supplementa-

Recreation space galore

By HIAWATHA ESTES

Farsighted home builders realize the advantage of planning ample recreation and living space for all the family from the beginning, rather than attempting to add or convert rooms later. This home not only provides a generous living-dining area, but also a large family room which is partially open to the kitchen.

A maximum of privacy has been achieved by locating the informal living area to the rear of the design. The family room is completely separated from the more formal living room so the adults and teen-agers can easily entertain simultaneously.

Sliding glass doors open from the family room to the huge patio. A shoulder high window in the opposite wall allows flexible furniture arrangement and cross ventilation. The family living center and the food preparation center offer the atmosphere of the much loved "country" kitchen. Note the large size eating nook and wealth of storage space, including the extremely wide pantry and general storage closet. A three quarter bath ideally located off the service area and it also opens to the family room. It features a pullman lavatory as do the other two baths.

When the sleeping and living areas are separate, noise and traffic are reduced. These areas are separated by the entry and hall which open to the partially roofed patio.

Although the garage has been attached to the side of the living room for smaller width lots, it could be removed and attached to the front wall of the bedroom wing.

The arches and wrought iron trim together with the sloping buttresses and chimney are features of this outstanding Spanish-Mediterranean exterior.

This same basic exterior is also available in a four bedroom floor plan, at a different price structure, and is illustrated in our book, Distinctive Homes.

Complete working drawings for Plan 31098 can be purchased for only $11.61 for the first set and $6.36 for each additional set ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these special prices until Jan. 2, 1974. Please allow two to three weeks for delivery. A specification booklet is available for $1.06. A large reproduction rendering of the exterior is available for $1.06. The following home plan books are also available: Distinctive Homes $1.33; Town & Country Homes — $1.33; Hallmark Homes — $1.33; Prize Homes — $1.33; Homes by Hiawatha — $1.33; Ranch & Modern Homes — $2.12. All six books — an $8.65 value — for only $6.89. Orders for less than three books, please add an extra 20c per book for postage and handling. Prices include sales tax. Send all orders to: Hiawatha Estes, P.O. Box 404-PO, Northridge, Calif. 91324.

Autumn spells outdoors

By STEVE ELLINGSON

If you have been spending your days and evenings by the air-conditioner, remember cooler days are ahead. From here on, outdoor living is at its best.

Soon, you will see more cook-outs, patio parties and outdoor activities of all kinds than at any time during the summer. It's the season for comfortable and durable exterior furniture.

The three pieces shown here with recording star Lyn Christopher, were designed to last a lifetime. Each is made of standard stock wood, available at all lumber dealers. They are put together with bolts and screws and may be left outside during the winter months. You will find they look just like new after a coat of paint or varnish each spring. Each of the items has wheels for easy mobility.

Both the two-seater-lounger and barbecue table are designed to support an umbrella. This is the sort of furniture that may be used on the lawn, patio or on your porch. It's the type of thing that is becoming more and more popular for furnishing indoor playrooms.

Each of the items pictured is easily built when you use the full-size patterns. You need only trace the pattern parts on wood, saw them out and finally, put the parts together. Lots of illustrations and easy-to-follow directions are included. These are projects that any amateur can undertake with confidence.

To obtain the following full-size patterns: No. 125 Countour Chaise $1, No. 255 Two Seater Lounger $1, No. 239 Barbecue Table & Benches $1, send currency, check or money order to: Steve Ellingson, Pomona Progress-Bulletin Pattern Dept., P.O. Box 2383, Van Nuys, CA 91409.

Add 25 cents per pattern for airmail delivery. Also available . . . booklet picturing over 500 projects . . . $1.

60,719 placed on Jobs in July

SACRAMENTO (UPI) —State employment officers placed 60,719 persons in jobs during July, the highest number of placements for one month in nearly five years.

Director Dwight Geduldig of the Human Resources Development Department Wednesday said the total July placements, the highest since October of 1968, also were 53.4 per cent ahead of July 1972, with marked increases in all categories of work.

Give thought to ventilating fan

ry heat source. There also are experior mounted wall or roof units which leave completely silent the room where the ventilator is located.

He says: "Location is the key to proper use of a ventilating fan. Ideally, a built-in wall or ceiling fan should be placed directly across the room from an incoming supply of air, such as a doorway. The moving air will ventilate the entire room as it is drawn through the exhaust fan to the outside."

Kenney warns against ''short-circuiting" of air movement. This is particularly true in bathrooms where tub and toilet areas should lie in the path of the air movement as it travels to the exhaust. Short-circuiting, he explains, means the air cuts a corner instead of venting the entire room.

Attic fans can be particularly valuable. "An attic cooling fan placed on the roof," Kenney says, "circulates air through the attic by bringing it in through openings in eaves, overhang or gables."

"This results in more evenly balanced temperatures throughout the home, and protects building materials from deteriorating effects of excessive heat and moisture," Kenney says. "Air conditioning equipment operates less frequently and for shorter periods of time. With such a fan, the whole house, air conditioned or not, will stay more comfortable."

In the kitchen, Kenney explained a range hood that has a funneling action is superior to a wall or ceiling fan.

There are three types of range hoods:

—Ducted, with built-in power unit; will exhaust smoke, odors, grease-laden air, moisture and some heat.

—Ducted, with exterior-mounted roof or wall fan; not only draws all air contaminants or effects of cooking to the outside, but is quieter and makes more efficient use of its power than the fan motor built into the hood.

—Non-ducted; stops smoke, grease and ordor with a bank of charcoal, fiber glass or almuinum filters, then feeds cleansed air back into the kitchen.

Kenney says the size of a ventilating fan depends on the particular circumstances. You would need a different fan for use in a baby's room where diaper odor might be the problem and a workshop where spray painting is done.

Each room should be checked carefully — with professional help if necessary — to be sure the right fan is picked for the job to be done, and that it is installed properly.

Even one or two fans, in the right places, can make for easier breathing.
